LOSS OF SIGHT FROM POSTERIOR ACCESSORY SINUS DISEASE, WITH REPORT OF THREE CASES.*

BY LEON E. WHITE, M.D., BOSTON,
Fellow in Otolaryngology, Harvard University; Assistant Aural Surgeon, Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary.

UNPREPAREDNESS in America is well illustrated by our knowledge on unusual cases. Limiting ourselves, as we do, to but a small portion of the great field of medicine, we find there are subjects even in this seemingly small field about which most of us have only an exceedingly vague knowledge.

While we are conversant with the literature and investigative work done on the ordinary run of cases, there is no special incentive to look up subjects that may never be of any practical application. It is only when some special case is forcibly called to our attention that we take the time to find out what others have done. We always hope that the field has not been well covered, that there may be a chance for us to do a little original research work, but are doomed, in most instances, to find that it has been so thoroughly investigated that little or nothing can be added.

The study of retrobulbar neuritis from accessory sinus disease is no exception. So well has the ground been covered by such writers as Birch-Hirschfeld, Onodi, Loeb, Holmes, Sluder, Knapp, Killian, Hajek, de Schweinitz, Posey, de Kleyn, Berger, Van der Hoeve, Halstead, and many others, that excepting the report of an occasional case or some pathological findings, little or nothing can be added.

Before reporting my own cases I feel that a review of a few of the conclusions and some of the cases found in the literature will be of interest:—

The observations of Beer in 1817 are the earliest writings I have been able to find pertaining to this subject. He says, in an article, "On Vicarious Blindness from Suppressed Snuffles, without Evident Accumulation of Mucus in the Frontal Sinus," "that the recognition of this form of amaurosis (or literally black cataract) is greatly facilitated by a history of a severe and suddenly suppressed cold in the head immediately preceding the ocular complication." Beer further says that "the cases all do well if one is able to re-establish a copious discharge of mucus from the nose"; without doubt Beer had to do with retrobulbar neuritis due to retention of pus in one of the posterior accessory sinuses.

In 1886, Berger and Tyrman, who were among the first to study the anatomical relations of the optic nerve, reported their findings in the examination of the differences in the partition wall between the optic nerve and the sphenoidal sinus. They also gave a brief review of the previously reported cases of blindness, some 26 in number, arising from sphenoidal disease.

In 1896, Dr. C. R. Holmes reported a case of "Unrecognized Empyema of Left Sphenoidal Sinus with Intense Headaches and Total Loss of Sight in Left Eye," etc., which was such a typical case showing the result of pressure on the optic nerve whenever the exit of the pus in the sphenoid became obstructed, that it has, since then, been referred to by many writers on this subject:

* Read before the New England Ophthalmological Society at Boston, Feb. 8, 1916.

The patient when first seen had pain in the left eye with vision 20-100; margins of disc slightly hazy; some venous engorgement; field of vision normal. The left nostril was almost completely closed by deviation of the septum and hypertrophy of the middle turbinate. Within two weeks the eye became totally blind and the optic nerve white. The sphenoidal sinus was opened and pus found. The case improved at first, but had several relapses due to faulty drainage. Vision improved so that at the end of five months she could see the face of a watch well enough to tell the time.

The following case of Dr. Holmes illustrates the seriousness of sphenoidal disease:—

The patient had suffered from marked nasal obstruction for twenty years and trouble with his eyes for four years. During a cold he would complain of pain in the temples and deep behind the eyes. Examination revealed both nostrils free from pus, but practically occluded by enormously swollen turbinates. A few days after the removal of a portion of the inferior turbinate the patient was suddenly seized with intense pains in the head and expired in about twelve hours, with symptoms of cerebral hemorrhage. The post mortem showed a blood clot covering the area of the sella turcica, anterior clinoid process and optic chiasm. On removing this it was found that the dura and bony roof over the sphenoidal cavity had been entirely destroyed.

In 1906, Schmiegelow reports two cases of retrobulbar neuritis due to latent suppuration of the sphenoidal and ethmoidal sinuses.

The other case was that of an 18-year-old girl vomiting and headache. Vision in one eye only was affected. There was no subjective nasal symptom. Examination, however, revealed pus in the sphenoid, which was opened, as well as the posterior ethmoid cell. Vision at once improved.

The other case was that of an 18-year old girl with optic atrophy which ran a varying and chronic course without signs or history of any acute neuritis. Both eyes became involved in the course of two and a half years. Examination showed double purulent sinusitis of both sphenoids and ethmoids. Headaches disappeared and vision improved after the sinuses had been opened and drained.

Knapp reported a case with nausea and frontal headache followed in two weeks with loss of sight in left eye to 20-70.

There was a pronounced neuro-retinitis. The visual field showed a normal periphery with a central scotoma for white and colors. Pus and crusts were found in the nose. The removal of a portion of the middle turbinate was followed by a great escape of pus, with improvement of the vision within 24 hours to 20-50. At the end of seven weeks vision was normal. Six weeks after the beginning of blindness in the left eye, the right eye was similarly but less markedly affected, which responded to treatment similar to that on the left side.

Sluder reported a case where blindness came on in both eyes 3 or 4 days after an acute coryza. The superior meatus was shut by swollen tissue. Treatment was followed by escape of pus and eventual restoration of vision.

Wiener reports a case of double retrobulbar neuritis in a specific patient where absolute blindness came on within 24 hours.

History of a coryza; had dull pain over middle of forehead. The fundi showed a low grade of optic neuritis; discs pale; veins engorged and tortuous; crusts and muco-purulent secretion found in both sides of nose. As the case did not respond at the end of 4 days to nasal treatment, the middle turbinate was removed on one side and the ethmoid cells cleaned out. Offensive pus was evacuated. Two days later the other side was operated on similarly and a similar condition found. A vision of 20-200 returned in one eye, while the other remained permanently blind. Both nerves showed some atrophic changes. Specific treatment was of no benefit.

Another case of Wiener's was in a perfectly healthy 9-year-old child where complete blindness came on within 10 hours following an acute coryza. There was some frontal headache. Fundi showed double optic neuritis with dilated and tortuous retinal veins. The nose was filled with a muco-purulent secretion. The patient improved under local treatment, and at the end of 4 weeks had vision of 20-70 in both eyes.

Paunz reports 6 cases.

In one, there was pain in one eye two weeks, with vision 5-50; paracentral scotoma. Pus was found in the ethmoids. Three months later the vision was 5-5 but the scotoma still remained and the fundus showed some choroidal changes.

A second case had coryza for a month with pain and partial loss of vision in one eye; central color scotoma absolute for blue, relative for red. In the operation on the posterior ethmoids no pus was found, only thickened mucosa. Five days later, vision 5-5 and scotoma less marked.

A third case had a specific history but failed to improve under inunctions; in fact, he grew worse until vision was for light perception in one eye and 5-50 in the other. In the operation on the nose polypi and hypertrophied tissue were found but no pus. Within 10 days vision was 5-5.

His fourth case was one of chronic retrobulbar neuritis, both eyes, with vision 5-70. Loss of vision had been gradual for 4 months. Central color scotoma. Both disks showed pallor on temporal halves. Pus was found in the left antrum, ethmoid and sphenoid. Seven weeks later vision 5-15 in one eye and 5-10 in the other. Color scotoma had disappeared, fundi unchanged.

The fifth case was of one week's duration with total blindness; crusts and pus found in posterior ethmoid cells both sides. Specific remedies failed to help, no specific history. Both disks became atrophic. Blindness permanent.

In his sixth case loss of vision came on after a cold. Eyes blurry in the morning, was blind at night. Fundi normal, no perception of light. The operation on left ethmoids evacuated considerable pus. Vision improved at first, then as it dropped, the right ethmoid was opened. Thereafter vision improved regularly and was normal in one month.

In 1909, Kranss reports a case of unilateral retrobulbar neuritis with large central scotoma. The nerve showed slight, if any, change, but the retina was hazy in the macular region. Draining the ethmoid cells brought immediate relief.

Stark reported three interesting cases before the ophthalmological section of the American Medical Association in 1915.

In one case, 10 weeks after an injury causing a fracture at the base of the skull, the vision in one eye suddenly became obscured. He could read in the morning but by evening could see objects only indistinctly. Vision 21-100. No fundus changes found except a possible engorgement of the retinal vessels. Peripheral field of vision normal for white but an absolute color scotoma for red and green. Empyema of the ethmoids was found and drainage obtained by the removal of the anterior end of the middle turbinate. Three months after this operation vision was normal, although the central scotoma for red and green lasted a year.

In the second case the vision in one eye became suddenly dim some four weeks after an acute rhinitis and a few days after having severe pain on the side of the head. The fundus was perfectly normal. Nasal examination showed a polypoid degeneration of the middle turbinate on the affected side. The removal of the anterior end was followed by temporary improvement, but as there were three attacks of pain with loss of vision within three months it was necessary to remove the remainder of the middle turbinate and clean out the ethmoid cells. In four weeks the vision was normal and so remained.

In the third case the patient, a physician, became suddenly blind while driving his automobile. Vision, when examined a short time later, was 20-30 right, and 20-15 left. Fundi fairly normal. Peripheral field for white normal. Absolute central color scotoma for red and green. After the escape of half a teaspoonful of foul smelling pus from the nose the vision improved so that it was normal within a few hours and the color scotoma disappeared.

Copeze reports a case of blindness from sphenoidal sinus disease:

Influenza was the cause. Operation on one of the sphenoids was followed by improvement of vision in the opposite eye only. Optic atrophy followed in the eye on the operated side.

Caldwell had a case which showed marked hyperemia of the disk with final atrophy of both optic nerves as a result of ethmoid and sphenoid disease.

Halstead's patient had sudden blindness in the left eye resulting from disease of the antrum, ethmoids and sphenoid sinus on the right side.

The vision returned after operation. He thought this contralateral involvement was caused by a rupture of sphenoidal septum, but later investigations show that the left optic nerve can be in relation to the right sphenoid, or vice-versa.

In an article published in 1910, de Schweinitz says in regard to scotoma as a result of sinus disease, that, "in a certain number of cases, the manifestation is that of a retrobulbar neuritis with its well-known symptoms of obscuration of vision beginning in the central field and rapidly progressing to complete or nearly complete blindness. At first the ophthalmoscopic appearances are negative but later there is blurring of the margins of the disk, diminution of the calibre of the retinal arteries, and pain on movement of the eyeball. In the study of this affection, not infrequently the sinuses have been neglected," "or rhinologic examination has failed to detect sinus infection where later investigations, or later results, have demonstrated well marked disease."

He reports a case that has many interesting features:—

Vision, when first seen, was 6-30 in each eye. The eye grounds were normal. The vision continued to fail. There was a delicate ringed scotoma in the left field, and a triangular paracentral scotoma in the right. Intranasal examinations showed only a universal congestion; that is to say, there was no pus, no polypi or no definite lesion indicating sinus disease. The x-ray examination was likewise negative. The left sphenoid was catheterized and a small quantity of pus withdrawn. Vision was now reduced to the ability to distinguish the largest typed letters at a few centimeters from her eye. Vigorous treatment, consisting of hot vapor baths, the administration of small repeated doses of mercury and suitable intranasal treatment, together with washing out of the sphenoid sinus at stated intervals, was followed by a measure of relief, and by a slight improvement in vision. After a year's residence in warm climates, the field of vision was found normal, and the vision had risen to 6-25.

In the New York Medical Journal, March 2, 1907, Posey says:—

"The connection between a sinusitis and an ocular inflammation can often be made only after very skilful and repeated examinations. Until within a very short time many ophthalmologists dismissed the possibility that an ocular inflammation could have originated in a sinusitis, by the patient's declaration that he did not have at the time, or shortly before, a bad cold in his head, or by the statement of an assistant, who took but a hasty view of the nares, that there was no pus in the nose."

"That congestion of the sinus, without exudation, is sufficient to occasion ocular symptoms. I have seen demonstrated in cases where competent rhinologists had failed to discover any exudate in the sinus whatever."

"There were cases of retrobulbar inflammation of the optic nerve which were observed in earlier years following grippe and in association with catching cold or rheumatism, where in place of the simple and effective treatment directed to the sinuses, they received active and often depressing and harmful general medication; as a consequence, blindness was the not infrequent result."

That there are many cases of optic neuritis not due to accessory sinus disease hardly needs mentioning, but there must be many cases where the origin is in doubt. Hajek expressed this thought well when he said:—"That the teaching of a common rhinologic origin for retrobulbar neuritis did not rest on a solid basis so far as actual proof is concerned." While he obtained improvement in some cases after opening the ethmoid cells without finding any disease, in other cases where sinus disease was suspected, but not found, no improvement resulted and the patients eventually became blind.

Birch-Hirschfeld has contributed much interesting and instructive literature on this subject. His article on his findings in a case of carcinoma of the posterior ethmoid cells, producing optic neuritis with central scotoma, has been quoted by many subsequent writers. The histological examination in this case revealed venous stasis due to compression of the orbital veins by the tumor, and isolated disease of the papillomacular bundle posterior to the site of entrance of the vessels into the optic nerve. This consisted in an edema of the optic nerve, swelling and proliferation of the glia cells, and disintegration of the nerve fibres.

This author believes the central scotoma, in diseases of the accessory sinuses, to be due to a venous stasis brought about by an extension of the inflammation in the sinuses to the blood vessels at the apex of the orbit.

As the concluding deductions in a long and excellent article by Loeb on the "Relations of the Optic Nerve to the Accessory Cavities of the Nose," published in 1909, he says:—

"Sphenoid sinusitis would naturally be called to account as the prolific cause of the infection in nerve involvement but for the fact that the sphenoid is less commonly affected than the other sinuses, and, except in closed empyema, the pus is evacuated in a large measure through the nasal opening. Stagnant and decomposing pus is more or less common on the floor, that part farthest removed from the optic nerve; but this factor becomes most potent where the orifice is at the level or about the optic nerve as shown in 4 out of 15 heads, as the likelihood of trouble is greatly increased by the immediate propinquity of the stagnant and decomposing pus, which in these cases is separated from the nerve only by a thin lamina of bone and the nerve sheath."

In 7, out of the 15 heads studied, one sphenoidal sinus was found to be in relation to both optic nerves, which explains sufficiently contralateral optic neuritis.

"The posterior ethmoid cells are frequently affected but have little influence on the optic nerve on account of the meagerness of their relation, viz., the posterior external angle. When, however, the posterior ethmoid cell replaces a portion of the sphenoidal sinus, the optic nerve in its passage along the external wall becomes most vulnerable as it is closer to the mass of pus and for a greater distance than under any other circumstances."

In a later article, Loeb reports an instructive case in which the radiograph showed both ethmoids obscured, and in which, on operating, he found enough trouble to warrant his diagnosis of an acute ethmoiditis just becoming purulent.

His case was of five weeks' duration with increasing loss of vision for three weeks. One week after removal of both middle turbinates and cleaning out the ethmoid labyrinths the vision was about normal.

To Onodi is due great credit for his research work on the relations of the accessory sinuses to the optic nerve. He has written several books which are profusely illustrated with life-size photographs of sections through the sinuses made in every conceivable way. He has also traced the development of the sinuses from the foetal stage to maturity and has also studied the sinuses from x-ray plates.

Onodi's findings furnish the anatomic foundation for the theory of blindness from accessory sinus disease, and explain contralateral and double-sided blindness from one-sided sinus disease.

He also investigated the enlargement of the blind spot in posterior accessory sinus disease, and found it present 38 times in 70 cases showing empyema. He reports a case of long standing optic atrophy on one side and optic neuritis and temporal hemianopsia on the other, where slight improvement followed an operation on the posterior ethmoids and sphenoid.

CASE 1 has been reported in full in the BOSTON MEDICAL AND SURGICAL JOURNAL,* but briefly is as follows:—

Miss R. S., 23 years of age, was seen five years ago. She gave a history of gradual loss of sight and severe pain of almost daily occurrence in and behind the left eye for two years. The sight was so poor that Dr. H. B. Chandler, who referred the case, could not get her visual field. He reported the case to be one of retrobulbar neuritis with a fairly normal fundus. On nasal examination pus was seen in the region of the left sphenoid and an exploratory operation advised. Advice was not acted upon and her subsequent history has shown a further loss of sight so that at the present time vision is only for light and darkness. The left-sided purulent discharge and the pain have persisted off and on ever since.

When x-rayed five years ago the plates were negative, but four years later they showed an ethmoiditis.

* Vol. cxciv, p. 791.

CASE 2 has also been reported in detail.* Briefly, Mr. C. J. McC., postoffice clerk, 25 years of age, in good health and of good habits, noticed, without apparent cause, a slight foginess in his left eye, which increased so that within three days his vision was 1-10; 48 hours later the right eye became similarly involved. There was no pain or discomfort in the eyes or head. Dr. William J. Daly, who referred the case, reported a marked central scotoma for white and colors, as shown in the charts. He found a blurring of the edges of both disks and an increased capillarity. Dr. Percy Brown made several x-ray plates and reported "an obliteration of the cavity of the sphenoid at a point which is usually but half the dimension (antero-posteriorly) of the normal sphenoid." "That portion usually lying below the sella turcica was completely occluded." The examination of the nose was practically negative, excepting that on probing the sphenoids the probe entered the right a full centimeter farther than it did the left. The left sphenoid was opened; there was no pus, only a thickened mucosa. A marked deflection of the sphenoidal septum to the left was found, which accounted for the apparent shallowness. Recovery was rapid and vision was normal in three weeks, and has remained so.

CASE 3. Miss J. L. P., age 21, student, was referred to me January 13, 1916, by Dr. F. I. Proctor, who reported loss of vision in left eye to 20-40, swelling about the left disk and enlargement of the blood vessels. She gave a history of catarrhal colds as far back as she could remember. Had tonsils and adenoids removed five years ago. Following a severe cold three years ago she noticed for the first time a blurring of the eyes which lasted two or three days. Five months ago she had a blurring which lasted a week. She further says that with bad head colds she not infrequently has some difficulty in seeing, but up to the present attack has not given it much thought as there was no pain and the eyesight was not very bad. Present attack followed the grip and was characterized by violent pain for three days. Then she noticed that there seemed to be something in left eye that needed to be removed. As wiping did no good, she consulted Dr. Proctor, thinking the trouble was due to some foreign body.

On examination of her nose there was found on the left a moderate deflection of the septum, and an enlarged and swollen middle turbinate completely blocking the superior meatus. Her right middle turbinate was swollen, but not as firmly wedged in as the left. There was a mucopurulent secretion exuding from beneath both middle turbinates; trans-illumination negative. Hot solutions were used in the nose and with the subsidence of the swelling there was a profuse discharge. The pain was relieved at once and practically disappeared within 48 hours. The next day there was some blurring of the right eye and Dr. Hawkins, who followed the case for 10 days while Dr. Proctor was away, has given me the following report:—

January 14th. "Fundi examination shows margin of each disk slightly edematous, veins and arteries somewhat tortuous. This condition most marked on nasal side, left.

Vision: right, 20-30; left, 20-40. Visual fields show a general contraction for both objects and colors. Colors retain normal relation. Each field presents an annular scotoma from 10 to 30 degrees.

January 25th. Vision: right, 20-20, left, 20-30 minus. Fields but slightly changed except that green is entirely within the annular scotoma and the red is perceived only in one small area on outer side of field in each eye.

Case was x-rayed by Dr. Percy Brown and his report is given in full:—

"The general situation in the case of Miss P. (No. 8562) as obtained by x-rays is somewhat as follows:

The sphenoids were investigated primarily by the so-called Bowen method, which permits of the projection of x-emanation from beneath the chin downward through the vertex of the skull when the head is in an extremely hyperextended position; in other words, with the head hanging over the edge of the examining table to the limit of extension. By this method it is possible to obtain a comparison of both sphenoidal areas in a manner impossible in any other position. The general deficiency of the left sphenoidal area in this case may be seen in comparison with the right. Anatomically, the left sphenoid is not as large as the right, especially in the antero-posterior diameter and it is, seemingly, the seat of subseptae, together with a certain degree of infiltration.

The remaining accessory sinuses of the nose in this case, as obtained through an antero-posterior plane of the skull, are not, apparently, in marked degree abnormal, with the exception that the portions of each frontal sinus closely approximating the median line present a moderate opacity which, however, suggests a mural thickening of the mucosa rather than effusive material."

FIG. 5.—Case III. Object 5 mm.

FIG. 6.—Case III. Unshaded portion shows visual field for blue.

FIG. 7.—Case III. Unshaded portion shows visual field for red.

FIG. 8.—Case III. Unshaded portion shows visual field for green.

The swelling in the nose gradually lessened and the vision improved so that it was practically normal at the end of 3 weeks. The scotoma is disappearing, but is not entirely gone. The blurring has been gone for some days. This blurring symptom was interesting, as it would become pronounced with some slight blocking up of the nose, thus varying from day to day. There would also be an occasional pain when the eyes were especially blurry. This case is one that evidently needs an operation to establish better drainage from the posterior accessory sinuses. The removal of the left middle turbinate will probably suffice; if not, the sphenoid and possibly the posterior ethmoid will be opened.

The middle turbinate was removed and the patient has had no further trouble up to date, January 13, 1917.

To sum up the results in these 27 cases which were selected at random:—

There was complete recovery in 14; improvement in 7; total blindness in one or both eyes in 5; one death; 4 cases recovered without an operation; in three the sphenoid alone was opened, while the ethmoid was operated upon 10 times alone and 7 times in conjunction with the sphenoid. In 15 the onset was sudden, with a history of coryza in 12, and severe pain in 13. Pus was found in 22 cases and a thickened mucosa in 5. Scotomas and fundi changes noted in 14. X-ray finding helpful in 4.

Cases of retrobulbar neuritis can be divided into three classes:—1. The acute ones which usually follow the grip or a coryza and are accompanied by severe pain. The pressure of the secretions in the sinuses and the swelling from the inflammation in the mucosa cause constriction of the optic nerve and artery.

2. The chronic ones where there is less pain, if any, and where an empyema of one or more sinuses is causing either a pressure on, or a toxemia of, the nerve.

3. Those cases where, on opening the sinuses only a thickened mucosa is found. Here hyperplastic changes are taking place and a periostitis in the sinuses by extension through the optic canal becomes a perineuritis.

From a study of the cases in this paper I think we may say that patients with retrobulbar neuritis demand our most careful attention. The diagnosis is made largely from the findings of the ophthalmoscope, vision and the visual fields. Radiographs may be helpful and should be taken, for even though they show no diseased sinuses, they may show some peculiar abnormality or some faulty development which might predispose to nerve involvement.

Enlargement of the blind spot is another valuable and early sign of neuritis. De Kleyn found in 52 cases of posterior accessory sinus disease enlargement 47 times, while he found the blind spot normal in his cases of frontal and antrum disease. In fact, in several cases, its presence enabled him to make a diagnosis of posterior accessory sinus disease which he verified by operation. Van der Hoeve says, "that enlargement of the blind spot for white and colors points with great probability to diseases of the posterior nasal accessory sinuses and justifies operative interference for this disease if there are no other causes for its presence."

The prognosis is, on the whole, favorable, especially where treatment is initiated before optic atrophy occurs. The success of any treatment must be based on a recognition of the pathology. The inflammatory process in the sinuses must be controlled. If pus under pressure is causing a strangulation of the nerve and artery, the pressure must be relieved, otherwise optic atrophy will follow. If the neuritis is caused by an extension of the inflammatory process or a toxemia, this condition must likewise be controlled. Each case should receive individual consideration. No one line of treatment is suitable for all. Some would get well without treatment. Other cases may clear up under appropriate general treatment, but severe cases, where there is actual danger of blindness, require the most careful and skilful treatment, both medical and surgical.

To relieve the pressure on the nerve, drainage from the posterior accessory sinuses should be established. This can be obtained in some cases by appropriate intranasal treatment. If this is unsuccessful, the middle turbinate, if obstructing, should be removed in whole or part.

In cases where there is no obstruction to the sinuses, only a thickened mucosa, the removal of the middle turbinate would not be indicated, excepting such portion as was necessary to get access to the sphenoid and posterior ethmoids.

If pressure on the nerve is not relieved within the next two or three days, as shown by an improvement in vision and the subsidence of the pain, the front wall of the sphenoid should be removed. This is a comparatively simple and safe operation when performed by one familiar with the anatomy of the region. If relief does not soon follow, the posterior ethmoid cells should be opened.

A complete ethmoid exenteration is, I believe, rarely necessary, as the relation of the optic nerve to the anterior cells is almost unknown. The eyes should be carefully watched from day to day, and a further loss of vision should furnish the indication for the progressive operative interference. Do, by all means, what is necessary to safeguard the vision, but do not become unduly excited and inflict on a patient a needless amount of radical surgery.

ON CRANIAL MEASUREMENTS OF PERSONS DYING IN INSANE HOSPITALS.*

By LAWSON GENTRY LOWREY, A.M., M.D., BOSTON,

Assistant in Neuropathology, Harvard Medical School, Pathologist to Danvers State Hospital.

One may safely infer that a great deal of work has been done on this important topic, without very remarkable results. The first part of this inference is based upon the statements occurring in many works from 20-15 years ago, on the importance of having such work done.

* Contribution No. 65, Danvers State Hospital Papers.

Thus Peterson¹, writing primarily upon skull studies in idiocy and imbecility in which some valuable data are presented, regards his article as primarily a stimulus.

Ford Robertson² gives a résumé of the results of craniometry in the insane up to 1900, but states several times that an extensive series is necessary.

Since these dates, not a great deal has appeared having to do with the crania of the insane, which leads to the second part of the inference,—that results have not been remarkable.

The impression one obtains who works with the insane (as distinguished from the idiots and lower-grade imbeciles) is that there are no striking deviations from the general population, in skull type or conformation. Certainly asymmetries and abnormalities of various types are seen fully as frequently, and to a striking degree, in the normal as in the insane population.

Such an impression is, to a large extent, borne out by the accurate method of measurement. The series here reported is small, but probably will suffice to make the point clear. This is a random series, the only requirement being that the cases come to autopsy.

The method is very simple. It is only necessary to reflect the anterior scalp flap to a point which uncovers the fronto-nasal suture; the posterior flap to the opisthion, and to uncover each zygomatic arch. The measurements were made with a steel tape, a brass rule and a cephalometer.

The following measurements were made:

1. Horizontal circumference. Through the glabella in front and the maximum occipital point behind.
2. Vertical transverse arc. Upper posterior border of each auditory meatus, across the top of the skull.
3. Glabella-occipital length. Greatest length from glabella to maximum occipital point, usually above the inion.
4. Maximum transverse width. In the parieto-squamous region.
5. Inter-zygomatic breadth. Between the widest points of zygomatic arches (outer surfaces).
6. Total longitudinal arc. Glabella to opisthion in midline.

Frontal: glabella to bregma.

Parietal: bregma to lambda.

Occipital: lambda to opisthion.

7. Mento-nasal, mento-glabella, mento-bregmatic, mento-occipital, mento-inion, mento-parietal. These really require that all teeth be present. Since this was rarely true, the majority of these measurements cannot be used, and I have selected only the difference between the mento-glabbellar and mento-bregmatic to present in this paper.

8. Certain others; minimum frontal, interstephanic and biasterianic were at first made, but later dropped.

A careful perusal of Peterson's and Robertson's works is recommended to anyone desiring to carry on such investigations.

1, 2 and 5 are done with the tape. 2, 3, 6 and 7 with the cephalometer.

THE DATA.

The data are presented according to psychiatric groups, in the form of averages, together with minimum and maximum in each group. The sexes are averaged together, since the numbers are otherwise entirely too small. It is, of course, true that the number of cases is too small for sweeping conclusions, but the general impression of approximate normality seems to be substantiated.

It seems unnecessary to comment on the table because in practically all cases the measurements are within physiological ranges. Strikingly few micro-cephalic or macro-cephalic cases were seen in this series.

Manic Depressive..		6	4
Dementia Praecox	1	6	4

The normal population probably shows a tendency towards dolichocephalism, which is the case in this general group also. It may be noted, however, that in the manic-depressive group of 10 cases the tendency is toward brachycephalism. In the particular groups here reported the manic-depressive cases tend to be short-headed as compared with dementia-praecox cases, but the range is by no means so great.

As stated before, the number of cases is too small to allow sweeping conclusions to be drawn, and the possibility of variations in the measurements is very great, so that further elaboration of the data here presented seems unnecessary. They seem to me, however, to verify the general conclusion derived by observation, that at least in the majority of cases of insanity the cranial measurements and cranial types are approximately those of the normal population.

TWO CASES OF LEIOMYOSARCOMA.*

By C. H. HARE, M.D., BOSTON.

Miss F., No. 2928, was first seen October 12, 1913. Age fifty-four. Never pregnant. Menstruation began at fifteen and ended at forty-six without any trouble. The amount of flow was always normal, and did not increase with tumor or at menopause. Dysmenorrhea was always severe, though less the last year of menstrual life. There was never any inter-menstrual bleeding. Leucorrhoea was always troublesome until it ended with the menopause. Her first pelvic examination was made when she was about forty-four, because of her leucorrhoea, and she was then told that she had a fibroid, though she did not recognize any tumor herself until about eighteen months before my operation, when she went to another physician for pelvic examination, at that time having sacral ache and leg cramps, especially at night. Growth of tumor then became marked. When first seen by me size was burdensome, though pains were not very bad. She weighed 166 and had been losing weight a short time. Urination was four or five times daily and three at night. No dysuria. No incontinence. Desire urgent. Insomnia had troubled her for twenty years. Appetite and digestion fair. Bowels regular. No edema. Not nervous. No flashes.

A subtotal hysterectomy, leaving a small piece of cervix, was done by the writer ten days after first seen. Heart, lungs and kidneys normal. A fourteen ounce wandering tumor, rolled up in the omentum, was removed from the right pelvis, where there were many adhesions but no pedicle. A ten-pound irregular tumor was removed from the left broad ligament, where it was two-thirds under the peritoneum. The sigmoid was stretched tightly over the tumor some six or eight inches above its usual location. Eight or ten inches of ureter were peeled off the under surface of tumor, and it was lying firmly upon the large blood vessels. Fundus uteri was atrophied and contained a few pea and olive-size interstitial fibroids. Right tube and ovary normal. Left tube twelve inches long by stretching over tumor with fimbriated end open. Left ovary not recognized. There were general pelvic adhesions and large bands five or six inches long. A small chronic appendix was removed. The operation was well borne and convalescence normal. The pathological report was: multiple uterine myomata, one calcified; but this was later changed to: malignant leiomyoma, on investigation and examination by Dr. Gardner.

After leaving the Hospital, she was next seen May 24, 1914, for a small tumor just to left of spine in the lumbar region, noted a few days previously. She weighed 170 and felt fine, except some pain from spine to sternum. Six days later under cocaine, the above large olive-size encapsulated tumor was removed. Fibroma was the pathological report on this.

The writer did not see her again or have any further care of her, but she wrote me some months later that medicine and vacation had failed to relieve her "intercostal neuralgia." Dr. W. J. Mixer will continue her story and further operations.

* Read Oct. 24, 1916, before Obstetrical Society of Boston. Extensive pathological report on first case has been published in American Journal Medical Research by Dr. Gardner.

Another malignant leio-myoma was operated by the writer last February, No. 4100. Age, fifty-five. Married fifteen years. Never pregnant. Menstruation began at fourteen and was always normal, until it ended at fifty-two without incident, though flashes, dizziness and general discomforts had existed for ten years. Pelvic ache and darts for a few weeks. Weight 164, though she had lost 16 pounds in six or eight months. Pelvic examination was made before married at forty, with reference to the safety of pregnancy, and she was then told that she had a small tumor, but she was never conscious of it and had no trouble from it, to her knowledge. Her next vaginal examination was made by her family physician three days before operation. He was called because her extreme constipation of twenty years had reached the point where it seemed that obstruction had begun.

On opening the abdomen, a pint or more of bloody fluid escaped. The pelvis was full of fibroids, and there were nodules from olive to egg size throughout the abdomen. There were no pelvic adhesions of account though they were abundant above the brim, and there were several acutely angled coils of intestine freed. The case was evidently hopeless, yet it seemed advisable, as not difficult, to remove the pelvic tumors, so a subtotal hysterectomy was done, leaving the cervix. Three pounds were thus removed. Ovaries were atrophied. Appendix not sought. Gall-bladder full and tense, but no stones felt. She bore the operation well and continued to do well, with temperature never over 99 or pulse over 115 and fair results from enema, until distention began the second afternoon following operation, which was followed a few hours later by sudden cyanosis and collapse, with death three hours later, or fifty-four hours after operation. The pathological report was: multiple uterine myomata, some calcified; malignant leio-myomata; sclerotic ovaries.

Book Reviews.

The After-Treatment of Operations. A Manual for Practitioners and House Surgeons. By P. LOCKHART-MUMMERY, F.R.C.S. (Eng.), B.A., M.B., B.C. (Cantab.); Senior Surgeon, St. Mark's Hospital for Cancer, Fistula and Other Diseases of the Rectum; The Queen's Hospital for Children, London; and Honorary Surgeon to King Edward VIIth's Hospital for Officers; Special Consulting Surgeon to City of London Military Hospital, and Fulham Military Hospital; Jacksonian Prize-man, and Late Hunterian Professor, Royal College of Surgeons. Fourth edition. New York: William Wood and Company. 1916.

In the fourth edition of P. Lockhart-Mummery's manual, he has entirely rewritten the chapter on Surgical Shock and has added one upon the treatment of Gunshot Wounds.

In general, the author describes fully the after-treatment of the more common surgical operations only, giving as his reason that "these are the cases in which the after-treatment is most likely to be left to the general practitioner or house surgeon." The book is limited strictly to the title.

This small volume of 250 pages is undoubtedly very good indeed; so good that it raises the question in the reviewer's mind as to the advisability of larger volumes and systems upon the subject of after-treatment.

On Modern Methods of Treating Fractures.

By ERNEST W. HEY GROVES, M.S., M.D., B.Sc., (Lond.), F.R.C.S. (Eng.); Surgeon to the Bristol General Hospital; Consulting Surgeon to the Cossham Hospital; Late Hunterian Professor of the Royal College of Surgeons of England; Major R.A.M.C. in charge of the Surgical Division of the 21st General Hospital, British Expeditionary Force. New York: William Wood and Company. 1916.

It seems to be true that the prefaces of books are well worth reading; there are, of course, exceptions, but not many. Prefaces vary from very good to very bad; yet even the bad ones are not long—and a considerable experience would suggest that as the prefaces are, so are the texts which follow them. If this theory is sound, the reading of a poor preface becomes its own reward, since it enables us to avoid the still more distasteful task of reading a poor book. And reading an interesting preface invites us to a longer enjoyment of the goods that the author has in store for us. Mr. Groves' preface is so brief and yet so comprehensive, that we quote it almost in toto:

"The following small book is the outcome of several years of close experimental and clinical study of the problems of fracture treatment. It embodies the work I did on fractures in animals with the assistance of grants which were made to me by the Science Committee of the British Medical Association, and the Hunterian Lecture which I delivered in 1914. But in the present volume I have also endeavoured to examine critically the various methods of fracture treatment which are of practical importance to the modern surgeon, and to indicate the conditions in which one or another ought to be employed. My principal aims have been two. First, to show that the various methods of treatment should all be brought into our service as occasion requires, instead of being regarded as independent, rival, or mutually destructive systems. And, secondly, to emphasize the necessity for mechanical accuracy and efficiency in dealing with what after all is largely a mechanical problem."

And his book from title to index is unquestionably one of the most interesting and valuable of the many surgical books which have appeared in 1916. Into 200 pages he has had condensed what he wishes to say—though the foundation on which this rests includes not only hard study, wide reading, varied experience, unusual opportunities, but also real experimentation in ample quantity, carefully recorded, studied and reported. From all of this he has made that most difficult of all things,—a thoroughly satisfactory primer or textbook upon a definite surgical subject. It is so much easier, and so much the fashion nowadays, to write “systems” and many tomes on very small sections of surgery.

Mr. Groves has divided his book into nine chapters: in the first, he considers “Myths of Yesterday and Problems of Today;” he surveys and condemns many of the details of the classical treatment of fractures; discusses form (or as we should say, position) as determined by x-ray, with relation to ultimate function; considers the modern problem, and the modern methods of solving the problem.

Two very important chapters follow—one on Massage and Mobilization; the other (No. III) on Extension by Adhesive Appliances. These chapters are unusually good; and put both subjects in new and important lights, and place them in an all too unfamiliar position to many who treat fractures at present.

Mr. Groves next discusses Mechanical Methods of Extension and the Operative Treatment. The mechanical methods are nail extension (Codivilla; Steinmann) and the author's modification; Operative Treatment includes 100 cases of Animal Experimentation; the Treatment of Usual Fractures; of special cases; of Open Fractures, and a final chapter on Non-union.

It is to be hoped that every one who treats fractures may read this book carefully; too much praise is difficult to give it: one may differ with the author, as for instance in fracture of the patella, but not often—nor fundamentally. He has torn away many bad traditions and has put in a brilliant position the best of recent thought, with a refreshingly moderate emphasis upon the operative treatment.

The Breast: Its Anomalies, Its Diseases, and Their Treatment. By JOHN B. DEEVER, M.D., LL.D., Sc.D., Professor of the Practice of Surgery, University of Pennsylvania; Surgeon-in-Chief to the German Hospital; Visiting Surgeon to the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania; Consulting Surgeon to the Germantown Hospital, the Philadelphia General Hospital, Saint Agnes Hospital, and Mount Sinai Hospital, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; and JOSEPH McFARLAND, M.D., Sc.D., Professor of Pathology and Bacteriology in the Medical Department of the University of Pennsylvania; Pathologist to the Philadelphia General Hospital; Fellow of the College of Physicians, Philadelphia. Assisted by J. LEON HERMAN, B.S., M.D., Assistant Surgeon to the Methodist Hospital of Philadelphia; Instructor in Anatomy, Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania. With 8 colored plates and 277 illustrations in text. Philadelphia: P. Blakiston's Son and Company, 1917.

Deaver's book is large, generous and complete. An exceptionally busy surgeon has had the patience and taken the time to produce and publish an exhaustive treatise upon all the surgical maladies that the breast is heir to! He has associated with himself an able pathologist, and an active young surgeon. The result is a book with which every good surgeon must make himself familiar.

In the brief preface the author tells us they “have been moved by two prime considerations: first, the importance of collecting individual experience in order that deductions and generalizations may follow, and, second, the dissemination of known facts of vital importance in the treatment of the malignant diseases of the breast.” Deaver himself modestly disclaims a “highwater mark of cure in malignant disease”; he lauds his co-workers heartily, and says that without them the volume would never have appeared; and acknowledges with gratitude the assistance obtained from many others.

In spite of this, for the surgeon this is “John B. Deaver, his book.” It reflects his directness and incisiveness of speech and action. He quotes freely, but qualifies only a little; he has put into 700 pages a very great amount of information, and brings us down to the latest advances in the subject, as, of course, one would expect.

In his 12 chapters Dr. Deaver considers successively the evolution of the breast, and its surgical anatomy; its anomalies, congenital and acquired; its trauma and its infection.

Chapters VII to X, inclusive, treat of cysts, general pathology, all breast tumors, and the operative treatment, which is considered in extenso. The final two chapters concern non-operative treatment and diseases of the areola.

Particularly to be praised is the adequate section upon operation, freely illustrated, and using the original descriptions of the various authors, whose operations are described; this covers, as it should, almost 100 pages.

The reviewer may end as he began; it is a generous, complete and admirable volume, and should be the companion of every surgeon.

MINERS' CONSUMPTION.

A RECENT investigation of the causes and prevalence of miners' consumption among the metal miners in southwestern Missouri forms the subject of Public Health Bulletin No. 85, issued by the U. S. Public Health Service.

Miners' consumption consists essentially of a mechanical injury to the lungs due to the prolonged inhalation of hard rock dust. It has been recognized as being prevalent in some American mining districts, particularly in the Joplin zinc and lead districts. It was to determine its actual prevalence, and its relationship to pulmonary tuberculosis, that the investigation was undertaken.

In the Poplin district certain mines are known as "sheet-ground" mines, in which the ore is found imbedded in an exceedingly hard flint.

In drilling and other mining operations this flint rock is finely pulverized. The minute rock dust particles enter the lungs, in the process of natural breathing, and by their irritating action cause the formation of fibrous, or scar-like tissue. The effect of this is to lessen the lungs' ability to expand and contract, with the result that the victim first notices that he is becoming short winded. With continued exposure to this silica-containing dust, the difficulty of breathing increases, until the miner is no longer able to perform active physical labor. It was found also that men with dust-injured lungs were especially liable to develop tuberculosis, the dust irritation lessening the ordinary resisting powers of the lungs. While miners' consumption is not in itself infectious or contagious, it predisposes to tuberculosis. The greater the amount of rock dust injury the greater the liability to tuberculosis; the far-advanced cases of miners' consumption practically all become tuberculous before their death.

Under an entirely voluntary system 720 miners presented themselves for physical examination, of whom 433 were found to have had their lungs injured by the inhalation of rock dust; of these 103 were also tuberculous, the amount of tuberculosis infection being greatest among the advanced cases of the rock dust disease.

Five years' steady work with exposure to flint dust is fairly certain to find the miner in at least the first stages of miners' consumption. If the miner continues his work after being affected, death usually results within ten years from the time that exposure to flint dust commenced. Poor housing conditions were found to be prevalent and to add to the liability of tuberculous infection. Apparently tuberculosis is now occurring at an earlier stage of miners' consumption than was formerly the case. The report lays emphasis on the necessity of preventing the spread of tuberculosis through these cases, especially among miners' children. The fact that miners' consumption is a forerunner of tuberculosis necessitates that it be treated with the same hygienic precautions as is the latter disease.

The report concludes that aside from the hygienic supervision of underground working places, the education of the miner against the spread of infection and supervision of miners' children, especially those of consumptive parents, are matters of vital importance.

TETANUS IN WAR AND PEACE.

In the early period of the European War, many cases of lockjaw or tetanus developed in the wounded of the Allied armies. This very fatal disease is caused by a bacillus which is often found in garden soil, street dust, and in the earth in the vicinity of stables. In order to cause tetanus, the germ must lodge in a wound and find suitable conditions for its growth. Injuries in which clothing or foreign matter is forced widely or deeply into the tissues are the most dangerous because the tetanus germ can flourish only in places into which the oxygen cannot penetrate, just as toadstools grow best when sheltered from the sun.

As soon as the stress of war conditions permitted, all badly wounded men were immediately given injections of the serum against tetanus as a routine procedure to prevent this dreaded disease. The use of the anti-toxin caused a prompt reduction in the number of cases, and the control of tetanus in the armies can be justly cited as one of the ways in which science is helping valor to win the war.

This subject is of especial interest at the present season because Fourth-of-July injuries, especially from blank cartridges, are apt to be followed by lockjaw if they are not promptly and properly treated. The general adoption of the "Sane Fourth" has done much to reduce the number of these accidents and suitable medical attention has prevented the development of tetanus in almost every instance.

In view of the serious results which may occur, it seems wise again to warn all parents that wounds from toy pistols, firecrackers, and firearms are always dangerous, and all persons hurt in this way, even though the injury appears trivial, should be taken at once to a competent physician for treatment, especially to ascertain if the serum should be injected.

MEDICAL NOTES.

NATIONAL SOCIETY MEETINGS.—The American Laryngological, Rhinological and Otolaryngological Society held its twenty-third annual convention in Atlantic City, N. J. Dr. G. L. Richards of Fall River, Mass., was elected president for the coming year. Other officers chosen included Dr. W. H. Haskins, New York, secretary; and Dr. Ewing Day, Pittsburgh, treasurer. The three new members of the executive council are Dr. F. J. Harris, New York; Dr. F. P. Emerson, Boston, and Dr. L. W. Deen, Iowa City.

Speakers at the final session declared that virtually every member of the society had pledged his services to the nation.

The American Climatological and Clinical Association, holding its thirty-fourth annual meeting at Lakewood, N. J., on May 29, 30 and 31, elected as its president Captain J. H. Elliott, of Toronto, Canada; Dr. H. M. Bracken of St. Paul, Minn., and Dr. W. G. Schaeffer of Lakewood, N. J., as vice-presidents; and Dr. Guy Hinsdale, of Hot Springs, Va., secretary and treasurer.

Papers were read by Dr. John B. Hawes 2nd, and Dr. Joseph H. Pratt of Boston on "Compromising with Consumptives" and "Diseases of the Heart and Aorta," respectively.

The American Medical Association held its sixty-eighth annual meeting in New York City on June 4, 5 and 6.

The House of Delegates met on Monday, June 4, with Surgeon General Rupert Blue, president of the Association, in the chair. The general meeting, which constituted the opening exercises of the Scientific Assembly, was held at 8.15 p. m., on Tuesday, June 5. The various sections of the Scientific Assembly met Wednesday, June 6, at 9 a. m., and subsequently according to their respective programs.

On Monday and Tuesday, the visiting physicians and surgeons were given an opportunity to study New York as a medical center. For this part of the meeting a local committee of arrangements, of which Dr. Wendell Phillips was chairman, had been at work for the past six months perfecting details. The result was a printed program of sixty pages embracing clinics, demonstrations and visits at 175 hospitals and dispensaries, tours of inspection to the health department, quarantine station, Ellis Island and a host of other points of interest to physicians.

At the Engineering Societies' Building throughout the meeting, moving picture exhibitions were given. Especially interesting were moving pictures of surgical operations, performed by noted surgeons, pictures showing the life history of flies and of mosquitoes, and pictures showing the work of the Red Cross.

Taking advantage of the presence in this city of a large number of hospital superintendents and others versed in hospital affairs, a meeting was held under the chairmanship of Dr. S. S. Goldwater, to discuss the planning and financing of municipal hospitals.

A special section of the program was set aside for the work of women physicians.

HOME HOSPITAL METHOD IN TUBERCULOSIS.—The New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor has issued reports of its home hospital for the treatment of tuberculosis which has now been in operation for five years. The home hospital method of dealing with tuberculosis with the family as a unit began in March, 1912. Families admitted to the hospital are those in which one or both parents have tuberculosis and in which there are young children predisposed to or already infected with the disease. Preference is given to families in which there is a reasonably good social record and in which the disease of the adult member offers a fair prospect of improvement.

While each family is allowed to live, so far as possible, a normal home life, everything that relates to the patient and the welfare of the families receives the most careful supervision. In addition to the medical and nursing care provided, each family receives instruction in the principles of prophylaxis and home hygiene. The patient in particular is taught so to live that he will not be a menace to his family, while the mother is carefully instructed in the care of her home and children and in the principles of household economy.

Upon admission to the hospital all members are given a complete physical examination and the family assigned to an apartment suited to their needs and provided with necessary home furnishings, clothing and toilet articles. When the wage-earner is the patient the entire expense of the family is provided by the hospital. When the mother is the afflicted one the wages of the father are supplemented by the institution so that in every case the family is well cared for and freedom from worry is thus secured. The adult patient is provided with a separate bedroom and, although the family unit is preserved, leads practically an isolated existence from the other members of his household. In clement weather, bed cases sleep out on the open-air balconies. Later, when ambulatory, they spend their days in reclining-chairs on a portion of the roof reserved for patients only. With a return to health, graded work is provided; later an attempt is made to secure full time work in suitable occupations. In the case of a mother patient, visiting housewives and helpers relieve her of the care of the home and children. For such cases the hospital diet kitchen has solved the problem of cooking.

With restored health household duties are gradually resumed. Infants spend the day in the open air nursery on the roof; older children attend the open air kindergarten or open air school. Thus in the midst of their families are provided for these patients the essentials in the cure of tuberculosis: viz., rest, fresh air, good food, freedom from worry and careful medical instruction and supervision.

The standardized dietetic-hygienic treatment employed in other sanatoria has been followed at the Home Hospital. This has been supplemented in suitable cases by the administration of tuberculin and artificial pneumothorax. Much corrective work is done, especially dental and naso-pharyngeal.

From March 18, 1912, to October 1, 1916, the Home Hospital has cared for 153 families, comprising 765 individuals, among whom there were 177 adult and 142 children patients and 253 children suspects. The average number in each family has been 3.3 units, or 5.2 individuals, of whom 3.73 have been patients or suspects. The total days treatment to all the individuals cared for at the hospital has been 262,260; the total days treatment to patients 194,898. The average days treatment of the families discharged has been 406 days. Ninety-two families have been discharged; 22 families have been dismissed; 39 families were under care October 1, 1916. The general policy of the hospital is to care for the families for a period of from 9 to 12 months, but in many instances the wretched condition of the children has rendered it advisable to retain the family a somewhat longer period. Moreover, unlike the practice in sanatorium treatment where the patient is discharged as soon as his condition warrants, at the Home Hospital families are retained for a period of observation after the wage-earner patient returns to work. Meanwhile the education of the family in prophylaxis and home hygiene has been attempted. After discharge the families are moved into decent tenements, kept under observation of a visiting nurse and report to the hospital at stated intervals for examination and advice.

MEETING OF AMERICAN SURGICAL ASSOCIATION.

—The annual meeting of the American Surgical Association, held at the Harvard Medical School on May 31, June 1 and 2, was not as well attended as usual because of the absence of many of its members on war service. Papers of particular interest were read by Drs. Joseph Bloodgood of Baltimore, Henry B. Delatour of Brooklyn and John A. Hartwell of New York city, Albert J. Ochsner of Chicago, William J. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., Stanley Stillman of San Francisco, John E. Summers of Omaha and Arthur D. Bevan of Chicago.

Other papers which reflect the war crisis will be that of Dr. Charles L. Gibson of New York city on "The Carrel Method of Treating Wounds," and that of Dr. Malcolm L. Harris of Chicago on "Regional Anesthesia."

AMERICAN SCHOOL HYGIENE ASSOCIATION.

—The tenth congress of the American School Hygiene Association was held in Albany, N. Y., on June 7, 8 and 9. On the opening morning, after an address by the President, Linneaus N. Hines, the session on School Nursing was held. The afternoon was given over to a symposium on Defects of Hearing and Speech, and the evening to papers on the general topic of the Nutrition of the School Child. The topic for morning session of the next day was "School Medical Inspection," for the afternoon "Physical Training" and for the evening "Communicable Diseases among School Children." On the last morning there was a general session with addresses on varying topics.

BETTER SANITATION NEEDED IN RURAL SCHOOLS.—In the interests of efficiency and health there is increasing necessity for the application of scientific medical and sanitary knowledge to the administration of the public schools, in the opinion of the Public Health Service.

In general, the faults observed in rural schools, the annual report of the Service declares, are due to a lack of skilled advice, especially in regard to the location, construction and equipment of school buildings, and disregard of sanitary principles governing water supplies, the disposal of sewage, ventilation, temperature, illumination, and the arrangement of school desks and blackboards. During the past fiscal year surveys have been made in rural districts of several states, and many thousand school children have been examined. These examinations have included thorough testing of the eyes by competent oculists, tests of mental capacity, and the effect of sanitary environment on school progress, as well as inspections for the customary physical defects.

The conclusion is reached that there is great need for improvement in rural schools and that communities themselves will benefit if conditions are bettered, the schools serving as object lessons for surrounding sections. Conditions in country districts have been found below those in the cities and it is apparent that organized health work has largely been confined to the latter. Considered from a sanitary standpoint alone, the Public Health Service is in favor of the consolidation of rural schools, since it must eventually result in the providing of better buildings and the organization of systems of efficient sanitary inspections.

OFFICERS OF AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

—In addition to the election of Dr. Arthur Dean Bevan as president, the American Medical Association elected officers for 1918-1919 as follows:

First vice-president, Dr. Edward H. Bradford of Boston; second vice-president, Dr. John McMillan of the United States Public Health Service; third vice-president, Dr. Lawrence Litchfield of Pittsburgh; fourth vice-president, Major Holman Taylor, U. S. A., Fort Worth, Texas; secretary, Dr. Alexander A. Craig of Philadelphia; treasurer, Dr. W. A. Pusey of Chicago; chairman of the House of Delegates, Dr. Hubert Work of Pueblo, Col.

On motion of Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago, a committee of five was appointed to confer with Surgeons-General Blue, Gorgas and Braisted for the purpose of formulating plans to be submitted to President Wilson which would confer greater powers on army and navy surgeons in the building of military training camps and their equipment.

WAR NOTES.

DUBLIN WAR HOSPITAL.—There has been organized in Dublin a war hospital unit for service at the front in France. This unit was received by the King at Windsor prior to its departure for France on May 4.

"In order to secure the services of more medical men the War Office is now prepared, it appears, to allow doctors to give their services, as members of hospital staffs, for periods of three or six months in France. Commissions will be granted for those periods, and rank, without pay, will be retained for three months after returning, in order to save regazetting should the officer go to France again in a short time. The restriction that all officers are to be over 40 years of age, and only to exceed 50 by a small margin, has in the latter case caused much disappointment, as it prevented the inclusion in the hospital staff of several well-known Dublin surgeons and physicians who had volunteered their services. All the clinical hospitals in Dublin will be represented by those who are going out, and every group of nine, who will usually serve for three months at a time, will consist of two physicians, three surgeons, an oculist, a pathologist, a radiographer, and an anaesthetist. The chief physician and the chief surgeon in each group will be given the rank of lieutenant-colonel, the other physicians and surgeons that of major, and the specialists that of captain. The response for the staffing of the hospital has been most ready, and the full number of doctors for the year has been already provided. The next staff will be almost entirely supplied by the Mater, St. Vincent's and Jervis Street Hospitals."

RELIEF WORK OF THE CITY COUNCIL.—The Boston City Council has voted an appropriation of $8000 to equip the Red Cross unit of the Boston City Hospital, soon to go abroad, and $100,000 for the Soldiers' Relief Department. The sum asked for the soldiers' relief is for the payment of war claims. The State will reimburse the city for the entire amount.

ARRIVAL OF RED CROSS UNITS IN ENGLAND.—The arrival of two more Red Cross units in England from this country is announced. The units were from Philadelphia and St. Louis, Mo. These, with the Chicago unit, have been royally entertained by English, Canadians and Americans in London. Social festivities and sight-seeing trips have been arranged and no pains spared to express cordiality and appreciation to the nurses and physicians who have offered themselves for foreign service. The Archbishop of Canterbury invited the units to tea at Lambeth palace. Visits to the Tower of London, the Parliament buildings and other places of historic interest have formed a part of the elaborate welcome prepared in their honor.

RECRUITING OF MEDICAL RESERVE CORPS.—At a meeting held in New York on May 28th for the purpose of stimulating recruiting in the Medical Reserve Corps, one hundred seventy-four physicians signed applications for commissions in the corps. Colonel T. H. Goodwin of the British Army, Maj. Roger T. Noble, U.S.A., and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt addressed the meeting. In Baltimore, Md., Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood, who has been active in recruiting in that city for the medical corps, stated that he believed it the inescapable duty of every member of the profession under the age of fifty-five years to volunteer his services to the Government and urged medical men to report at once to their state committee and thereby spare the surgeon-general much detail work. The following New Englanders have received their appointments to the Officers' Reserve Corps:

George F. Fiske, captain, medical, Manchester, N. H.; Harold W. Dana, first lieutenant, medical, Brookline, Mass.; Henry L. Stickney, first lieutenant, medical, Manchester, N. H.; Roland H. Behrman, first lieutenant, medical, Roslindale, Mass.; George H. Burke, first lieutenant, medical, Springfield, Mass.; James Faulkner, first lieutenant, medical, New Britain, Conn.; Raymond Parker, first lieutenant, medical, Winthrop, Mass.; Harrison Robinson, first lieutenant, medical, Bangor, Me.; Harry L. Frost, first lieutenant, medical, Hinesbury, Vt.; Harrison Parker, first lieutenant, dental, Boston, Mass.

PARIS RED CROSS HOSPITAL.—The Red Cross Hospital of Paris, organized by Dr. Joseph A. Blake, its surgeon-in-chief, and supported by the American Red Cross, was formally opened on May 31. President Poincaré, in bestowing the Legion of Honor upon Dr. Blake, said, "France bestows this in recognition of your science, your devotion and your creative work given for her." The ceremony was attended by notable Americans in Paris, including Ambassador William G. Sharp, and Robert W. Bliss, counselor to the American Embassy. The Hospital has three hundred eighty beds and is admirably equipped.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT UNDER GENERAL PERSHING.—The following physicians comprise the medical department of the staff under General Pershing: Colonel Alfred E. Bradley, surgeon; Colonel Marriette W. Ireland, Major George P. Peed and Captain Henry Beuwkes, assistants.

MEDICAL OFFICER FOR CHINESE IN FRANCE.—It is announced by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions that Dr. James

F. Cooper of Foochow, China, has been granted a leave of absence for the duration of the war, to go to France as medical officer to a Chinese labor battalion. Thousands of Chinese laborers and artisans are being sent to the front in France to do ordinary work and release every Frenchman possible for war service. The recruiting of this Chinese service has been managed by the British Army. Hospitals and medical service for the laborers are necessary and Chinese speaking doctors are in demand. Dr. Cooper will have charge of a hospital at one of the larger bases. He takes to France with him four male Chinese nurses from the American Mission Hospital in Foochow.

DENTAL NURSES FOR U. S. SOLDIERS.—Dr. Edward C. Kirk, chairman of the Dental Committee of the Council of National Defense has appointed Dr. Alfred C. Fones of Bridgeport, Conn., to organize an oral hygienic committee to take charge of the dental work of American soldiers. Dr. Fones' first work will be instructing and training 1,000 Red Cross and registered nurses in dental hygiene. When these nurses are qualified they will be sent in groups to inspect the sixteen different training camps in the country, where they will do the preliminary work of putting the teeth of the soldier in condition for war. They will then report the need of more extensive work to the dentists who will follow to complete the task.

MORE RECRUITS FOR BASE HOSPITAL NO. 5.—Major Harvey Cushing, director of the Harvard Unit known as Base Hospital No. 5 has sent word from France that the hospital requires forty more enlisted men. This hospital has 1000 beds, double the number expected when the unit left Boston. There is need also of an additional number of physicians and nurses.

THE PRINCE GEORGE AS A HOSPITAL SHIP.—The Prince George, which has sailed between the port of Boston and Yarmouth, N. S., has been taken by the British Government to be used as a hospital ship abroad. The ship was built at Hull, Eng., in 1899, and was among the fastest of the ships entering this harbor.

HEALTH CONDITIONS IN THE NAVY.—The committee appointed by Secretary Daniels, consisting of Dr. William H. Welch, Dr. Abraham Flexner and Nathan Strauss, to investigate health conditions in the Navy, makes report that the hospital ship Solace has been well managed. After interviewing more than one hundred men who were aboard the ship during the period covered by the complaint of poor management, the committee states that the general testimony was to the effect that the men received what they wanted, needed and asked for, and in the judgment of the committee there was no lack of kindness and intelligent care on the part of Dr.

Blackwood and his assistants. They were dealing throughout the month of May with an unprecedented emergency, and in handling it they acquitted themselves admirably. Furthermore, the committee consider that the medical personnel in charge of the fleet's naval hospitals are all entitled to the highest praise for their devoted and untiring efforts and for the success which they achieved under extremely difficult conditions.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE RED CROSS.—The Boston Metropolitan Chapter, American Red Cross, reports that a contribution of $2535.68 has been received from the Vincent Club of Boston, the proceeds of its recent theatrical performance.

NEED OF RECRUITS IN THE MEDICAL CORPS.—In addressing the recent meeting of the American Medical Association, Dr. Rupert Blue, surgeon-general of the United States Public Health Service, called attention to the great demand for physicians as medical officers. Dr. Blue stated that when the draft begins, physicians of the country will have to examine at least 1,500,000 men in selecting the first five hundred thousand soldiers. Within the next six months the army and navy will require about ten thousand medical officers. At the meeting of the section on preventive medicine and public health, the problems of sanitation and the part that medical men will take in the mobilization of the great army were discussed. Dr. W. Irving Clark, Jr. of Worcester, spoke on "The Protection of the Health of the Workers in War."

Col. T. H. Goodwin, ranking medical officer of the Balfour commission, addressed the Association on the immediate need of the Allies for medical assistance and stated that human endurance could not stand much more than the surgeons of the Entente allies were now undergoing.

"On a short line there are from 20,000 to 30,000 wounded in but a few hours," he continued. "Shall we leave them there or get them to the hospitals? Suppose we left them to crawl in shell craters to suffer for hours and in many cases for days. People ask why need medical men be killed, as they are non-combatants and should be behind the firing line. I think you will realize that the medical men must be on the firing line if the wounded are to receive proper care. Our losses of medical men have been considerable."

Dr. Franklin H. Martin, chairman of the medical section of the Council of National Defense, stated that only 3000 men have enlisted thus far in the medical officers' reserve corps. There are 9000 young doctors in this country between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-one who are liable to conscription and who should have enrolled themselves in the Medical Reserve Corps. Dr. Martin stated that more than twenty-five thousand physicians and surgeons were needed for European service.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt addressed the Association and made a ringing appeal to every man to offer his services to the Government, to be not only willing but determined to enroll himself in some department where he can be of use.

BOSTON AND MASSACHUSETTS.

WEEK'S DEATH RATE IN BOSTON.—During the week ending June 23, 1917, the number of deaths reported was 242, against 233 for the same period last year, with a rate of 16.34, against 15.98 last year. There were 37 deaths under one year of age, against 34 last year, and 72 deaths over 60 years of age, against 81 last year.

The number of cases of principal reportable diseases were: diphtheria, 74; scarlet fever, 26; measles, 194; whooping cough, 10; typhoid fever, 6; tuberculosis, 55.

Included in the above were the following cases of non-residents: diphtheria, 9; scarlet fever, 2; tuberculosis, 6.

Total deaths from these diseases were: diphtheria, 7; scarlet fever, 2; measles, 3; tuberculosis, 30.

Included in the above were the following cases of non-residents: diphtheria, 2; scarlet fever, 1; tuberculosis, 3.

MARYLAND UNIVERSITY MEDICAL ALUMNI.—The New England Alumni Association of Maryland University School of Medicine held its eighth annual reunion in Boston on June 13th. About fifty attended. The following officers were elected for the coming year: Dr. George L. Yoosuf, Worcester, secretary and treasurer; vice-presidents by States: Dr. R. H. Morris, Everett, Mass.; Dr. L. E. Williard, Saco, Me.; Dr. Fred von Tobel, New Hampshire; Dr. F. C. Angell, Vermont; Dr. Fred Devine, Rhode Island; Dr. T. M. Ryan, Connecticut.

COLLEGE OF PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS.—The thirty-eighth annual commencement exercises of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Boston were held on June 13th. The degree of doctor of medicine was awarded to eleven candidates.

SUCCESS OF DISTRICT NURSING ASSOCIATION.—In addressing the National Conference of Charities and Corrections, Miss Mary Beard of the Instructive District Nursing Association of Boston stated that fifteen thousand homes were visited by the organization in Boston last year. Nearly a fourth of the patients were children and an equal number were maternity cases. The services of the Association reduced the death rate among babies by as much as fifty per cent. in some parts of the city.

MORTALITY INCREASE IN BOSTON.—It is reported by the Instructive District Nursing Association that the death rate among women occasioned by childbirth in Boston is very high. From the beginning of the twentieth century, the death rate soared in this state at an appalling rate, and only within the past four or five years has the menace to life shown promise of mitigation. In Massachusetts the death rate from diseases caused by pregnancy and confinement was 11.1 in each 100,000 of population. It was 14.4 in 1913. In Boston the rate increased from 18.5 to 20.6 during those thirteen years, while the death rate from tuberculosis was much reduced and the number of deaths from typhoid and diphtheria was cut in half. In marked contrast stands the record of New York City, which reduced the corresponding death rate from 20.3 in 1905 to 14.1 in 1913.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS FUND.—The infantile paralysis fund, it is reported, has reached $12,434.95.

NEW ENGLAND NOTES.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT OF BANGOR STATE HOSPITAL.—The appointment of Dr. Pearl T. Haskell to the position of superintendent of the Bangor State Hospital follows the resignation of Dr. F. L. Hills. The election was made by the board of trustees and is subject to confirmation by the governor and council.

REGARDING PRACTICES OF PHYSICIANS CALLED TO WAR SERVICE.—At a joint meeting of the Belknap and Grafton (N. H.) County Medical Societies held on June 12, a resolution was adopted pledging the members to do all in their power to care for the practice of their fellows who may be called into medical service. The practice is to be restored upon return of the physician, with a fair per cent. of the income derived from the practice that was normally theirs.

The reading of the records of the last meeting was dispensed with by vote. The Secretary read the oath of office taken by the Treasurer, Arthur K. Stone, before the President, February 9, 1917, being a part of the records of the Council. The names of the Nominating Committee were read by districts and fourteen principals and alternates retired. Dr. Charles M. Green presented the report of the Committee on Membership and Finance, as to Membership, and the report was accepted and its recommendations adopted. (See Appendix for report.) He read a report of the same committee as to Finance. (See Appendix.) The first recommendation of this report, namely that the vote of the Council, February 7, 1917, that $5000 be appropriated for the use of the Committee of 23 on Health Insurance, be rescinded, was put to a vote and passed unanimously. As regards the second recommendation it was voted that action be postponed. As to the third it was Voted: That, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter VI, Section 4 of the By-Laws, next year and thereafter the Treasurer of the Society be bonded in the sum of $5000.

Dr. J. Arthur Gage read the report of the Committee on Ethics and Discipline (see Appendix) and it was accepted and recorded. A report for the Committee on Medical Education and Medical Diplomas, read by Dr. Harold C. Ernst, was accepted and filed. (see Appendix.) Dr. W. H. Robey, Jr., read the report of the Committee on State and National Legislation and it was greeted with applause and accepted. (See Appendix.) The report of the Committee on Public Health, embodying a report of the health agent, Mr. Ingham, was presented by Dr. Hamilton and was accepted. (See Appendix.) The committee appointed to consider the petition of Edgar F. Haines for restoration to the privileges of fellowship was acted on favorably.

The petitions of the following for restoration were read severally and committees were appointed to consider them:

For A. C. Leach of Orange	G. P. Twitchell H. F. M. Smith S. J. TenBroeck
For J. F. R. Biron of Amesbury	O. P. Mudge J. Q. Adams J. W. Rand
For E. E. Doble of Quincy	N. S. Hunting T. J. Dion F. R. Burke
For Lena V. Ingraham of Brookline	R. W. Hastings G. W. Kean Joseph Kittredge
For J. C. Stammers of New York	C. H. Hare T. F. Leen A. M. Fraser
For W. J. Johnstone of Jamaica Plain	A. N. Broughton A. P. Perry Victor Safford

The Treasurer made a report (see Appendix) and it was accepted by vote, as was the report of the Librarian. (See Appendix.) The report of the Committee of 3 on Health Insurance was read by Dr. F. J. Cotton (see Appendix) and it was voted to accept it and to discharge the committee in accordance with its recommendations. Dr. Charles E. Mongan read the report of the Committee of 23 on Health Insurance (see Appendix) and it was received with applause and recorded, by vote. Discussion as to the amount of the appropriation needed by this committee was participated in by Dr. Bowers, Dr. Worcester, Dr. A. K. Stone and Dr. P. P. Johnson, and on motion by Dr. Mellus it was Voted: That $2500 from the uninvested funds of the Society be and it is appropriated hereby for the use of the Committee of 23 on Health Insurance.

Dr. A. N. Broughton read the report of the Committee on the Workmen's Compensation Act and it was accepted and the committee discharged in accordance with its recommendations. (See Appendix.) On motion by Dr. P. P. Johnson it was Voted: That a committee on Workmen's Compensation be appointed by the Chair, to consist of five members of the Council and one member from each District Society.

Dr. P. E. Truesdale was voted the privilege of the floor and spoke on the subject of military medicine and the importance of the establishment and endowment of a chair in that department in a medical school. At present there is only one such chair in the country, that in the University of the City of New York, and that is not endowed. Dr. F. J. Cotton presented the following resolutions and they were passed:

Resolved: That the President be requested to appoint a committee of five members of the Society, to look into the matter of an academic chair of Military Medicine in this Commonwealth, and if in its judgment the project is feasible, to do whatever may be done to further this scheme, and to report to the next meeting of the Council.

Resolved: That the President, if possible, announce the formation of this committee and its membership at the Annual Meeting of the Society.

Dr. A. N. Broughton asked for an appropriation of $1000 for the use of the newly appointed committee on Workmen's Compensation and said that in compliance with the terms of Chapter VII, Section 3 of the By-Laws he would present such a request to the Committee on Membership and Finance.

Dr. F. J. Cotton talked on the subject of Reconstruction Hospitals for the readjustment of the cripples from the War and asked for the privilege of the floor for Dr. E. G. Brackett, in charge of the first hospital of such a character on the summit of Parker Hill in Boston, and it was so voted. Dr. Brackett explained that about eighty per cent. of the men who returned invalided from the front needed reconstruction work to fit them to reënter civil life; that they needed especially vocational training and unless they are returned speedily they become dependents on society, the problem merging soon from a medical to an industrial one. At present there are about a thousand disabled soldiers a month returning to Canada and it will not be long before our soldiers will come here. He bespoke the interest and sympathy of the Society. On motion by Dr. Gay it was Voted: That the Council heartily approves of any action looking to the encouragement of the erection and maintenance of Reconstruction Hospitals.

The President read a letter from Mrs. Frances C. Axtell, Vice-Chairman of the United States Employees' Compensation Commission, Washington, D. C., asking for the coöperation of the Massachusetts Medical Society in the administration of the federal law for compensation and asking certain questions as to fees in this state. Dr. F. J. Cotton introduced these preambles and resolutions and they were passed unanimously:

Inasmuch as fee-tables rarely, if ever, have proved satisfactory to any one concerned, but always a source of contention;

Inasmuch as a fee-table for the state could be drawn up equitably only if at all, with differing rates for different districts throughout the state—a colossal undertaking;

Inasmuch as any fee-table necessarily operates to reduce all services to one level,—and that the minimum level of compensation and of efficiency;

Inasmuch as we have been against a fee-table in Workmen's Compensation work under the state law, and have worked out a scheme of compensation based on the current rates of the locality in which the service is rendered—a scheme which with the coöperation of our Industrial Accident Board has worked out fairly well and is expected to work better when this year's amendments to the law become effective;

Therefore, Be it Resolved, that we record ourselves as not in favor of any fee-table system, but rather in favor of a scheme of compensation at the "industrial rate" for the given community, with a competent small commission for the state, to pass on the adequacy of the services rendered and the reasonableness of the charges therefor.

Dr. A. P. Merrill introduced the following resolutions and being put severally by the Chairman they were passed:

Be it Resolved: That the Massachusetts Medical Society emphatically urges its members, especially the younger men, to offer their services to the Medical Reserve corps of the United States Army; and be it

Resolved: That the President be and he is empowered hereby to appoint a committee of five members to coöperate with the Government to secure this result; and be it

Resolved: That each District Medical Society be urged to take action relative to the care of dependent families of members who go into active service.

In conformity with the second resolve the President appointed this committee:

H. D. Arnold, Chairman,
J. B. Blake,
J. M. Birnie,
A. P. Merrill
E. H. Bradford.

Dr. A. N. Broughton presented the following resolution that was passed unanimously:

Resolved: That the Massachusetts Medical Society in its annual meeting, through its Council, recognizes the widespread demand throughout the country for an intelligent coördination of all measures which will contribute to the successful prosecution of the war; and realizing how largely alcohol is a factor in lessening all forms of efficiency, physical, intellectual, and moral, and further, the intimate connection between drinking, prostitution, and the spreading of venereal disease, wishes to place itself on record as favoring national prohibition for the duration of the war.

Dr. E. F. Cody offered this resolution, and it was passed:

Resolved: That the Massachusetts Medical Society, through its Council, requests that the Secretary of the Navy restore the regulations concerning venereal prophylaxis abrogated by him some years ago and that the Massachusetts Senators and Representatives in Congress be requested to coöperate in this matter.

The President read obituaries of George Baker Underwood and Joe Vincent Meigs, Councilors who had died since the last meeting of the Council. The Nominating Committee brought in a list of nominations for officers and orator and on proceeding to ballot, Dr. Hubbard and Dr. Fallon acting as tellers, the following were declared elected:

President, Samuel B. Woodward, Worcester; Vice-President, George P. Twitchell, Greenfield; Secretary, Walter L. Burrage, Boston; Treasurer, Arthur K. Stone, Boston; Librarian, Edwin H. Brigham, Brookline; Orator, Myles Standish, Boston.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MEMBERSHIP AND FINANCE, AS TO FINANCE.

Recommendations:

1. That in view of the fact that the following vote, passed by the Council at its last preceding meeting, on February 7, was in discord with the by-laws, Chapter VII, Section 3, which requires that the Committee on Membership and Finance "shall consider all requests for extraordinary appropriations and shall recommend to the Council whether or not they shall be granted," and inasmuch as the vote was passed without reference to said Committee and without recommendation from it, it is recommended that the said vote be rescinded:

"Voted: That an amount not exceeding $5,000 be appropriated from the uninvested funds of the Society to be expended for the uses of the Committee of 23 on Health Insurance, and that next year an assessment in addition to the customary assessment be levied on the Fellows of the Society to reimburse the treasury for whatever money may have been so expended."

That an appropriation not to exceed $5,000 be made from the uninvested funds of the Society for the uses of the Committee of 23 on Health Insurance.

3. That in accordance with Chapter VI, Section 4, of the by-laws, concerning the bonding of the Treasurer, that next year and thereafter the Treasurer be bonded in the sum of $5,000.

CHARLES M. GREEN, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON ETHICS AND DISCIPLINE.

The work of your Committee during the past year has not developed any new questions bearing upon the standards of our Society, although the usual number of complaints demanding investigation have come before it for adjudication.

The meetings have been fully attended, all members have loyally shared in the necessary work, and their decisions have been uniformly harmonious.

Only two complaints charging neglect of a case of ophthalmia neonatorum have been presented this year. One case had been very thoroughly investigated and settled by inspectors from the local Board of Health, the State Board of Health and an independent organization. The other had led to investigation not only by the State Board of Health, but by the Board of Registration in Medicine, and appropriate action had been taken.

Such action seems wise, as neglect in these cases is an offense against the laws of the State. It is, however, evident that the profession has become better educated to the importance of the proper notification and care of these cases, thus indicating a marked improvement over previous years.

Minor questions affecting the mutual relations of members of the profession have been adjusted, and several publications extolling the special ability of individual members have called for admonishing letters.

A question as to the right of our members to participate in the propagation of birth control literature seemed to your committee a matter of individual conscience and outside its jurisdiction.

New methods of practice that have come into existence recently, such as mutual and group society work, have been brought to our attention, but in their last analysis they fall under the head of contract practice, a subject already thoroughly discussed by this Council.

The question of advertising is still one that demands much of the Committee's time, and it seems more imperative than last year that it should receive the serious attention of the Society. Today the Massachusetts Medical Society supports in part an official journal that sells advertising space, and the action of the journal in this respect must affect the standard to be maintained by the members of the Society. This fact alone will necessitate action in the near future. In addition there has been a marked change in the attitude of the profession toward advertising in the public press, much space at the present time being used to inform the public on many questions of medical practice. What rights the individual members have in this respect, and in how far they conflict with the standard prescribed by the Code of Ethics of the Society, is a question for the consideration of the Council.

The Committee wish to acknowledge the valuable assistance of the Secretary in systematizing the cases presented for consideration, and in preparing the new "form letter" which has already proved an important feature in facilitating the investigation of complaints and in increasing the respect for the by-laws of our Society.

J. ARTHUR GAGE, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MEDICAL EDUCATION AND MEDICAL DIPLOMAS.

On behalf of the Committee on Medical Education and Medical Diplomas, I beg to present the following report:

Exercising its authority to rule upon diplomas from schools not on the accepted list, and presented by candidates for Fellowship in the Massachusetts Medical Society, a number of cases have been disposed of during the past year. The fear expressed by some Fellows that the adoption of the vote of June 9, 1914, in accordance with which the Committee has the power, under certain conditions, to recognize a medical degree coming from a not recognized medical school, would result in the admission of a considerable number of graduates of such schools, has not been realized. The safeguards thrown about the power thus granted has resulted in the affirmative action by the Committee on the applications of but eight individuals since the passing of the vote. Everyone of these applicants has been highly recommended by his neighbors, and evidence has been presented in each case showing that he would be a desirable member of the Massachusetts Medical Society.

A matter that has occupied the attention of a Subcommittee is a letter received last fall from Dr. N. P. Colwell, Secretary of the Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Association. This refers to the ease with which charters for educational institutions may be secured in many of the States of the Union. By the facts accompanying it, it appears that in most states, any coterie of men, no matter how ignorant, by paying a small fee can secure a charter to open an educational institution, with the right to grant any or all degrees,—no questions being asked as to whether they have the needed finances, or the teachers and teaching facilities, which are essential to furnish the education usually required for a Bachelor's or a Doctor's degree.

A suggestion was made that a campaign should be started, whereby the chartering of educational institutions may be safeguarded by legislative enactment. This letter called the attention of the Committee to the condition of things in this Commonwealth, and it is interesting to know that there are now in existence in Massachusetts seventeen incorporated medical schools or colleges—exclusive of those attached to universities like the Medical Schools of Harvard, Tufts, or Boston Universities. Only six of these incorporated medical schools are empowered to confer degrees, and, so far as our present information goes, at least nine of them are at present inactive. In regard to these inactive schools, or perhaps it would be better to say charters, there is no means for knowing what has become of the enabling instruments. A letter from the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth reads as follows: "Incorporated medical schools and colleges are not required by law to make annual returns to this office, and there is, therefore, nothing of record here to show who are the persons in authority in these corporations at the present time, nor is there anything on file here to show who would have the power to reascitate any of these corporations." This condition seems to your Committee to be a threatening one, and it would be well to consider what means, if any, can be devised to prevent dangers arising from the reviving of these charters in the hands of unscrupulous persons.

The Committee lent its individual assistance to the support of the amendment to the Medical Practice Act reported by the Legislature, and offered its assistance to the Committee having that matter in charge.

By reason of an unfortunate misunderstanding, the Committee this year was not represented at the meeting of the Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Association in Chicago last winter. It is unable, therefore, to give a personal report of the occurrences at that meeting.

The new list of accepted medical schools and colleges was accepted last year and printed, and is at the service of the Secretaries of the District Societies.

HAROLD C. ERNST, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON STATE AND NATIONAL LEGISLATION.

Almost immediately after the appointment of this Committee, a meeting was held and plans made for the study of legislative matters. President Woodward decided to make a strong effort to rouse the Auxiliary Committee to a sense of its duties and importance. On December 2, 1916, the President invited the members of the main and auxiliary committees to a luncheon at the Harvard Club. Twenty-six of the forty members were present and expressed their willingness to assist the main Committee by presenting to their senators and representatives the merits or faults of the various bills affecting the public health and the medical profession.

The Committee on State and National Legislation held weekly meetings for ten weeks, and sent representatives to all hearings of bills affecting the public health.

SENATE BILL NO. 135.

At the request of the Committee on Workmen's Compensation Act, our Committee met several times with this Committee and discussed Senate Bill No. 135. Section 5 was the part of the act the Committee desired to pass, which provided that "the Association shall furnish adequate and reasonable medical and hospital services and medicines, when they are needed. In the event that the employee shall be treated by a physician of his own selection, or where in case of an emergency, or for other justifiable cause, a physician other than the one provided by the Association is called in to treat the injured employee, the reasonable cost of his services shall be paid by the Association, subject to the approval of the Industrial Accident Board. In contested cases such approval shall be granted only after the Board finds that the employee was so treated by such physician, or that there was such justifiable cause, and, in all cases, that the services were adequate and the charges reasonable."

This bill became law on April 24th and great credit is due Dr. A. N. Broughton and his Committee.

HOUSE BILL No. 1886.

This bill would give the State Board of Registration in Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy, and Veterinary Medicine, authority by a majority vote of the entire Board, to suspend, revoke, or cancel any certificate, registration, license or authority issued by any one of said Board, in case of insanity or where the holder is guilty of deceit, malpractice, gross misconduct or any offense against the law relative to his profession.

This legislation was recommended by the special commission to investigate the extent of the use of habit-forming drugs in the Commonwealth and was passed by the legislature. The bill was strongly supported by this Committee, and after being passed by the legislature, was signed by the Governor.

HEALTH INSURANCE.

The Committee voices the opinion of most of the members of the medical profession in Massachusetts who have studied the problem of health insurance. While it may be desirable in some form, its many aspects are as yet too little understood by employers, employees and the medical profession to have any act relative to health insurance become law. At the hearings the Committee advocated further study of the matter.

There has been no legislation as yet.

HOUSE BILL No. 710.

This bill, relative to insuring the purity of vaccine virus as used in the vaccination of school children, aimed to prevent compulsory vaccination, and was lost.

HOUSE BILL No. 1489.

An act to permit children and other persons to attend public schools without being vaccinated, was lost.

Both bills, No. 710 and No. 1489, were ably opposed by representatives of the Committee and by the work of our Auxiliary Committee.

HOUSE BILL No. 590.

A bill relative to the registration of nurses and the inspection of hospital training schools was introduced by the Massachusetts State Nurses Association and was supported by the Committee.

This bill was given leave to withdraw.

HOUSE BILL No. 224.

The Board of Registration in Medicine asked that candidates be required to have a full four-years' course of instruction of not less than thirty-six weeks in each year; that the Board be allowed by unanimous vote to revoke any certificate issued by it and cancel the registration of any physician, for a period not exceeding one year, who has been shown at a hearing to have been guilty of gross and confirmed use of alcohol in any of its forms while engaged in the practice of his profession, or of the use of narcotic drugs in any other way than for therapeutic purposes; or to have published, or caused to be published, or to have distributed, or caused to be distributed, any literature contrary to the provisions of chapter three hundred and eighty-six of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and eight; or to have acted as principal or assistant in carrying on the practice of medicine by an unregistered person or by any person who has been convicted of the illegal practice of medicine, or by any registered physician whose license has been revoked either permanently or temporarily, or to have aided or abetted in any attempt to secure registration, either for himself or for another by fraud, or in connection with his practice, to have defrauded or attempted to defraud any person; and that whoever practises or attempts to practise any fraud in connection with the filing of an application, or whoever files an application under a false or assumed name, or under a name other than his own, or whoever personates or attempts to personate another applicant for registration, during an examination, shall, for each offense, be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment for three months, or by both such fine and imprisonment. In a case in which a provision of this or the preceding section has been violated, the person who committed the violation shall not recover compensation for services rendered.

The Committee approved and supported the bill, which was passed by the legislature after having the clause providing for one pre-medical year, equal to a year in a college of liberal arts, stricken out.

HOUSE BILLS No. 74 AND No. 1032.

House Bill No. 74 providing for the removal of sufferers from tuberculosis, and No. 1032 on the licensing of hospitals for tuberculosis: The Committee approved of and supported the bills, but questioned the necessity of establishing a special institution at a cost of $50,000.

No. 74 was withdrawn by the proponents; No. 1032 failed on the third reading in the House.

HOUSE BILL No. 247.

This bill asked for an appropriation to permit the State Board of Health to make antipneumococcal serum.

The Committee thoroughly approved of this act but felt that the appropriation should be urged with the understanding that the treatment of pneumonia by sera is still in the experimental stage.

The bill was passed by the legislature, as was also Senate Bill No. 463, approving an act relative to specific material for protective inoculation, diagnosis or treatment to be furnished by the State Board of Health.

SENATE BILL No. 266.

To exempt foreign practitioners from examination. This was opposed by the Committee as it was practically the same bill which was introduced last year by which it would have been lawful for a certain "herb doctor" to practise without license, without knowledge of diagnosis, and without the control of the State Board of Registration in Medicine, and would have opened the way for many charlatans.

Committee gave leave to withdraw.

SENATE BILL No. 149.

An act to establish a Massachusetts Board of Immigration was approved by the Committee, and the legislature created such a board.

HOUSE BILL No. 254.

Relative to the adulteration of drugs and food; was rejected in the House, March 26th.

HOUSE BILL NO. 248.

Relative to the construction and maintenance by counties of tuberculosis hospitals for certain cities and towns: was enacted in the House, May 7th, and in the Senate, May 8th.

This was approved by the Committee.

HOUSE BILLS NO. 251 AND NO. 2017.

No. 251 was an act to authorize the State Department of Health to provide for the protection of the milk supply. It was ordered to its third reading as No. 2017.

Engrossed in the House, April 28th; rejected in the Senate, May 8th.

These bills were approved by the Committee.

HOUSE BILLS NO. 1965 AND NO. 253.

Relative to the classification, grading, and labelling of milk; were enacted in the House May 8th, and in the Senate May 9th.

Both bills were approved by the Committee.

HOUSE BILLS NO. 252, NO. 546, NO. 1880, AND NO. 1912.

Relative to the pasteurization and sale of milk, were enacted in the House May 9th, and in the Senate May 10th.

These bills were approved by the Committee.

SENATE BILL NO. 22.

A bill to prohibit experiments on living dogs was opposed by the Committee, and defeated.

SENATE BILL NO. 291.

An act which provided that no member of the Board of Registration in Medicine shall, at the expiration of his term of service, become his own successor in office.

This bill was opposed by the Committee, and defeated.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC HEALTH.

The Massachusetts Medical Society has always taken a live interest in public health, and many of its activities have been directed towards improved sanitation and the prevention of disease. The Society has throughout its long history helped to preserve the health of the Commonwealth. The work of the Committee on Public Health, summarized in this report, adds another effort in this direction.

A group of generous subscribers, inspired with the ideal of conserving the health of our people, gave a sum of money sufficient to employ a special agent, and in June, 1916, Mr. E. A. Ingham was intrusted with the responsibilities of the position. Mr. Ingham is a member of the Department of Biology and Public Health of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; he also has received the Certificate in Public Health from the School for Health Officers of Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and is Lecturer in Hygiene and Sanitation at Tufts Medical and Dental Schools.

The basis of the work to be followed by the Agent is contained in the following vote passed by the Committee on Public Health:

1. To stimulate the interest of the medical profession in Massachusetts in sanitation, hygiene, and preventive medicine.

2. To stimulate the cities and towns of Massachusetts to employ full-time health officers.

3. To stimulate better work in medical inspection of schools, infant mortality, prenatal work, district nursing, anti-tuberculosis work, industrial hygiene, sanitary engineering, and the prevention of common communicable diseases.

4. To investigate the health conditions of the State with reference to public health work.

Realizing that the rural district is the weakest link in the sanitary chain, the campaign was organized so as to concentrate attention upon the problem of the small towns and country districts. It was the unanimous opinion of the Committee that sanitary progress in rural communities lags largely for want of trained leadership. It was therefore decided to emphasize the great value which would come from the employment of full-time health officers and public health nurses.

At about this time, a letter was received from the Chairman of the Committee for Rural Progress in Barnstable County, asking that that district be considered as a place to begin our work. Mr. Ingham investigated the situation on the Cape, and visited Barnstable, Bourne, Falmouth, Provincetown, Sandwich, Truro, and Yarmouth. In each case, the physicians, the members of the local boards of health, and other persons especially interested in public health work were consulted. A special effort was made to stimulate the interest of the medical profession in hygiene and sanitation.

The situation on the Cape, in general, appears to be not very encouraging. None of the towns have a population of over 5,000 and the tax rates are generally high. In some towns the area is so large in proportion to the population that a health officer would find it difficult to give proper attention to more than one town, while in other places local feeling and jealousy between towns serve as an obstacle to the Wellesley plan of coöperation. The large increase of population on the Cape, owing to the summer colony, presents special problems which require special consideration, and your Committee hopes to accomplish improvements along constructive lines, despite the difficulties.

Much work was done at Beverly to stimulate that town to employ a full-time trained official as guardian of its health. The Chairman of the Committee on Public Health gave an address on the subject at a public meeting held in the town hall. No decision has yet been reached.

Woburn has also been studied, and the Agent has made visits to other places, attended meetings, and given addresses.

Under the State Law, every city and town with a population of 5,000 must have at least one physician on its board of health. In the smaller towns, where the board of health (other than the board of selectmen) is elected, it is customary to have at least one medical member of the board, though this is not required by law. The physician who serves in this capacity is likely to bear the greater part of the responsibility of maintaining the public health work of the community, because he is best fitted for the work by training and experience. The remuneration for this form of public service is pitifully small, and the work inevitably interferes with private practice to a considerable extent. Hence, physicians in this situation often sacrifice much. Many of them feel the lack of special training, and an effort to establish a summer school to meet this situation is being considered.

Respectfully submitted,
M. J. ROSENAU, Chairman,
W. IRVING CLARK, JR.,
ENOS H. BIGELOW,
ANNIE LEE HAMILTON, Secretary.

REPORT OF THE TREASURER.

On February 9th, the newly elected treasurer was sworn in by the president and assumed his duties.

The securities of the Society were taken over from the estate of the late Edward M. Buckingham, inspected, and found correct. The bond of the former treasurer was transferred to the new treasurer, and is held by the chairman of the Committee on Membership and Finance.

The new treasurer employed Mr. Horace C. Harts-horn, a public accountant, to close the books of the late treasurer, to open new books, and to enter the accounts of the Society for the period from the first of January to the time that the new treasurer took charge of the funds of the Society.

In accordance with the vote of the Council the treasurer, after consultation with the Committee on Membership and Finance, has subscribed to $5000 in the Liberty Bond issue.

The treasurer has paid bills contracted by the various Committees and officers of the Society that have received the approval of the president, and has the funds of the Society in his possession, deposited with the Old Colony Trust Company and the New England Trust Company.

Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR K. STONE, Treasurer.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN.

The Librarian reports that during the past year he has attended to the various duties of his office with special attention to having the BOSTON MEDICAL AND SURGICAL JOURNAL sent promptly to the Fellows.

A third edition of the Annual Directory of the Officers and Fellows was compiled and issued as a Supplement to the JOURNAL. It had some errors and omissions, due largely to the loss of the original manuscript and the first revise by the Post Office Department.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWIN H. BRIGHAM, Librarian.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF 3 ON HEALTH INSURANCE.

The Committee on Health Insurance, appointed a year ago to confer with the Recess Committee of the Senate and House charged with the consideration of this subject, herewith requests that it be discharged, having done that service for which it was appointed.

Through the summer and fall and until the Recess Committee was ready to report we studied this matter and kept in close touch with this Committee, not, we think, without success.

In October last we reported our work to that date in some detail.

You have seen the report of the Recess Committee and realize that any legislation that may go through would not now be passed without adequate recognition of the medical men's interest and rights.

It does not seem, moreover, that such legislation is likely to pass for some time in any form.

There is a new Committee of twenty-three, Arthur K. Stone, Chairman, charged not with the legislative end so much as with that broad study of the question which is the present need.

We ask our discharge on the ground that we are no longer needed and have done our work.

F. J. COTTON, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF 23 ON HEALTH INSURANCE.

Your Committee met on March 13, 1917, and chose Dr. A. K. Stone of Boston, Chairman, and Dr. Peer P. Johnson of Beverly as Secretary. Since the appointment of the Committee which was ordered by a vote of the Council at the meeting held February 6, 1917, the United States has declared war against Germany. In consequence of the entrance of the United States into the fearful European contest, medical men have been called upon as never before to consider questions relative to medical military preparedness and to the care of our vast army and navy in action. So great has been this demand for medical officers for the war that it has been intimated in some quarters that there is a great possibility that there will be a shortage of medical men. Therefore it seems fitting that all those questions that do not clearly bear on medical military preparedness should be held in abeyance until after the war, and, again, social conditions will certainly be changed after the war, and legislation that would apply to peace conditions would not apply to war conditions, or to conditions immediately after the close of the war. We would recommend that the Council oppose any comprehensive social insurance plan until after the war. The legislative situation of the question of Health Insurance is as follows: The Recess Commission on Social Insurance rendered their report to the legislature in March. The report can be found in House Document No. 1850. The report of the Commission was not unanimous. Four members reported in favor of Health Insurance, and a plan for carrying out their recommendations. One commissioner agreed to the plan of these four, but did not give his approbation on account of the enormous expense involved. Two other members thought it was not the proper time to carry out any plan until further information was obtained and public opinion found on the subject. Another group of two members reported in the following, in part: "We do not advocate immediate legislation for Health Insurance because this Commission has not had sufficient time to study the subject thoroughly." A single member makes this remark in his report: "I recognize that without further study and investigation, the adoption of all the measures presented by the majority of the members of this Commission, within the limited and absolutely inadequate time at our disposal, would shake the foundation of our social, political and financial structure. In other words, I regret that all their efforts have been devoted to building an alluring superstructure with very little consideration given to the foundation."

Even though I am in absolute sympathy with the object that is desired to be obtained, I maintain that no legislation on this matter is preferable, by far, to ill-timed, poorly considered and hastily drawn legislation which leads—no man knows where. Thus we have one report from the Commission and three statements explaining the report and a statement from one member dissenting from the views of all the others. The House received this report and placed it on file. The Committee on Social Welfare of the Massachusetts Legislature of 1917 held many hearings on the question of Social Insurance and especially on the consideration of the Young Bill, so called. The result of their deliberation was to recommend to the Legislature that a new recess commission be appointed to consider the matter of Social Insurance. This Commission is to consist of three members of the Massachusetts Senate and appointed by the President of the Senate, six members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, to be appointed by the speaker of the House, and two members of the Commission to be appointed by the Governor. The Governor has not yet appointed the two members, consequently the commission has not been organized. Your Committee feels that it ought to secure a paid agent, preferably a stenographer. They feel further that it may be necessary to hold meetings in various parts of the Commonwealth for the purpose of securing information at first hand concerning the medical problems peculiar to the locality. We feel further that it be necessary that our agent should attend all meetings of the Commission and report frequently to your Committee concerning the matter of Health Insurance. Such information as we need for the proper study of this whole thing cannot be had by voluntary work. The personnel of your Committee will be sufficient guarantee that any funds intrusted to their care will be judiciously expended.

CHARLES E. MONGAN,

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT.

The Committee of five appointed at the last annual meeting of the Society was enlarged at the fall meeting of the Council by the addition of members from practically every district in the state. That Committee met as a whole, every month so far as possible, and the smaller Executive Committee had weekly meetings throughout the fall and winter.

In each district an Auxiliary Committee was asked for, and these Committees formed a valuable adjunct to the smaller Committee.

A great deal of work was done, and the Committee had the cordial support of all the profession throughout the state. After the experience of this campaign, one thing remains perfectly clear: That any attempt to influence legislation involving such far-reaching changes as were accomplished this year, would be utterly hopeless without the expert advice such as the Committee had in Mr. A. N. Frost of Lawrence, who acted as legislative agent for the Society. The amendment to the Compensation Act would have been defeated at every turn without this assistance.

Changes in the personnel of the Industrial Board and its enlargement will be of interest to the Society in the administration of the new law. That an aggressive attack will be made against the law from all quarters is to be expected, and it is essential that the Massachusetts Medical Society continue its watchful care in safeguarding the interests of the profession just as intently next year as it has the past year.

In conclusion, in appending the chairman's letter to the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, to be incorporated as a part of this report, the chairman wishes to express his sincere thanks to the president of the Society, to the Committee on State and National Legislation, and to all the auxiliary committees who have given us continuous and painstaking support throughout the year. To those members of the Committee who were actively associated through all the campaigns, no other thanks are necessary than to have successfully won the fight. At the same time, the chairman feels under lasting obligation to them all.

ARTHUR N. BROUGHTON, Chairman.

(Copy of letter to the Editor of the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.)

Mr. Editor:

At midnight of April 23 the bill to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act, introduced by the Massachusetts Medical and Homeopathic Medical Societies, became a law, and without the Governor's signature. The final form in which the law was passed is as follows:

"Chapter seven hundred and fifty-one of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and eleven, as amended by section one of chapter seven hundred and fourteen, is hereby amended by striking out section five of Part II as amended and inserting in place thereof the following new section: Section 5. During the first two weeks after the injury, and, if the employee is not immediately incapacitated thereby from earning full wages, then from the time of such incapacity, and in unusual cases, in the discretion of the board, for a longer period, the association shall furnish adequate and reasonable medical and hospital services, and medicines, when they are needed. The employee shall have the right to select a physician other than the one provided by the association and in the event that he shall be treated by a physician of his own selection, or where, in case of emergency or other justifiable cause, a physician other than the one provided by the association is called in to treat the injured employee, the reasonable cost of his services shall be paid by the association, subject to the approval of the Industrial Accident Board. Such approval shall be granted only if the board finds that the employee was so treated by such physician, or that there was such emergency or justifiable cause, and, in all cases, that the services were adequate and reasonable and the charges reasonable."

The passage of this law marks one stage in the fight to correct the injustice and ineffectiveness of the Workmen's Compensation Act as it stood for four years. The principles involved concern not only the physicians throughout the state, but every workman, every employer of labor, and very many large insurance companies. The passage of the amendment through the legislature was of great interest. The only open opposition to the bill was of some large interests in Worcester and Boston. In contrast to this, the bill had the support, not only of the medical societies but of all the various labor organizations and very many employers. The Chairman of the Industrial Accident Board stated at the hearing that the doctors were entitled to relief. The insurance companies offered no open opposition. The bill had a unanimous report from the Joint Judiciary Committee. It went through the three readings of the House with no apparent opposition, and it was not until the third reading in the Senate that any marked attempt was made to defeat the bill. In this instance, the opposition was originated almost entirely at a single source. That same opposition was met when the bill was finally given to the Governor for his signature. It is a matter of regret that the bill had to become law, as it did, without the signature of the Governor. It is not clear how a bill which had the support of all the physicians, of all the workmen, of many employers, and with so little open opposition, could have failed to have the support of the Governor.

The law as it now stands is not perfect, but it is a marked improvement actually for all concerned, compared with the law as it stood. The chief beneficiaries under it will unquestionably be the workmen; but the entire economic situation, we believe, will be improved by compelling good medical service to be rendered in the case of accident, however and wherever it is furnished.

Two important duties now lie before the physicians of the state: In the first instance, it is imperative that the profession as a whole emphasize the sincerity of their contentions by the most scrupulous care in their conduct of all industrial cases, both in their medical and financial relations to the case. One of the greatest dangers to be encountered would be the unfair exploitation of the law in securing undeserved remuneration or in any way becoming objects of deserved criticism at the hands of those who must administer the law. The second duty, also of great importance, is the recognition of the fact that already a powerful opposition is being organized to attack the law and repeal it or seriously cripple it at the next session of the legislature. The profession throughout the state must continue their defense of the justice of the law as it now stands and cooperate in protecting it. It would be a great discouragement to the committees of the two societies that have worked so hard to bring this change about, to have its work all undone either by a lack of continuous and aggressive coöperation on the part of the profession or disloyalty in the performance of its duties under the law, to those principles of honesty and fairness which in reality are the fundamentals of the ethics of the practice of medicine. To justify the work on behalf of this new act we must work together and in the spirit of fair play in which the amendment to the Compensation Act was drawn.

ARTHUR N. BROUGHTON, Chairman.

DEPARTMENT OF PREVENTIVE MEDICINE AND HYGIENE

THE Department of Preventive Medicine and Hygiene of the Harvard Medical School, under the auspices of the National Academy of Sciences, is conducting a special investigation of so-called ptomaine poisoning and gastro-intestinal infections suspected of being due to food. This investigation will be continued for a period of several years.

It is of the utmost importance for the success of this investigation to obtain the active interest and hearty coöperation of the practising physicians of Massachusetts. To this end it is urgently requested that the Department be notified immediately concerning any case of suspected food infection or poisoning. The Department is prepared to send out field investigators to study such outbreaks and to collect the necessary specimens for laboratory examination. All expense connected therewith will be borne by the Department, and complete reports will be made to the proper authorities on request.

It is especially important that notification be given immediately and that any material which may help in tracing the infection, such as suspected food, vomitus or faeces be collected as soon as the condition is suspected. The telephone number is Brookline 2380.

Miscellany.

RESOLUTION ADOPTED BY THE LYNN MEDICAL FRATERNITY AT A MEETING HELD JUNE 7, 1917.

Whereas our nation is at war, and urgent appeals have been made for physicians to join the Army Medical Corps or other branches of our fighting forces, and in expectation that many of our loyal physicians will respond to their country's call in the face of national danger, therefore, be it resolved: That the practicing physician of Lynn, Swampscott, Nahant and Saugus agree to attend to the practice of any physician who may be absent on war duty according to the following arrangement:

One-half of the entire amount collected from the practice of an absentee, with the exception of Lodge Work, shall be paid to such one of the absentee's dependents as said absentee shall designate to the secretary of the Lynn Medical Fraternity. Amounts due to absentees' dependents shall be paid monthly.

A physician working under this agreement further agrees not to visit professionally any of absentee's patients whom he may have attended during the absence of said absentee for at least six months after the return of said absentee without the consent and approval of absentee.

And further it is resolved:

That this agreement shall be signed by all the physicians as an earnest of their intention to abide by it, and that the agreement and the signatures shall be published in the daily papers and the public be notified by this statement that patients of absentees should inform the substituting physician that they are patients of absentee.

ORGANIZATION OF AMERICAN BASE HOSPITAL UNITS.

THE issue of the British Medical Journal for June 2 publishes the following description of the American Base Hospital Units, which have already arrived in England for war service.

"The six medical units from the United States which are to take over base hospitals in France will, it is expected, all have arrived before the end of this week. The unit from the Western Reserve University, Cleveland, some particulars of which were given in the last issue, was followed quickly by units from Harvard (Boston) and Columbia (New York), both of which have already left London for the Continent, and these by units from St. Louis, Philadelphia, and Chicago. The Harvard unit, whose official title is United States Army Base Hospital No. 5, was organized under the American Red Cross by Professor Harvey Cushing. It consists, like the others, of three members of the administrative staff taken from the medical corps of the regular army, namely, Major Robert U. Patterson, commanding, Captain D. W. Harmon, adjutant, and Captain Charles Rund, quartermaster. The professional staff, in addition to Major Harvey Cushing, includes Major Roger I. Lee, professor of hygiene at Harvard, and Major Robert B. Osgood, professor of orthopedics, together with five officers holding the rank of captain and sixteen that of first lieutenant. Among the latter is Dr. W. B. Cannon, professor of physiology at Harvard. The staff includes an anesthetist, a radiologist, two dental surgeons, and other specialists, including a dentist. The hospital company consists of 16 orderlies from the medical department of the regular army and 132 specially enlisted men, 65% of whom are Harvard students. The nurses number 64, and there are three secretaries. All have 'signed on' for the duration of the war.

"The Columbia unit, whose official title is United States Army Base Hospital No. 2, is commanded by Major L. L. Hopwood, with Captain Edward Wells as adjutant, and Captain D. F. Hopkins as quartermaster. The director of the professional staff is Major George E. Brewer, professor of surgery at Columbia and surgeon-in-chief of the Presbyterian Hospital, New York City. The chief of the surgical service is Major William Darrach, and of the medical, Major Homer Swift, and the number and assignments of the unit are virtually the same as in the case of Harvard and the others.

"The fourth and fifth contingents to arrive were the Washington University unit (Base Hospital No. 21) from St. Louis, and the Pennsylvania Hospital unit (Base Hospital No. 10) from Philadelphia. The sixth and last contingent, from Chicago, was expected at the end of this week. In all these cases the organization is practically the same as in the Western Reserve, Harvard, and Columbia units already described, save that the St. Louis unit has a feature which, so far as our information goes, is peculiar to itself. Arrangements have been made for those of the enlisted men from St. Louis who are medical students to continue their studies while serving with the unit. There are thirteen of these at present, but the number is expected to reach thirty-five by next January. Washington University has recognized the professional staff as a teaching faculty, and has arranged to substitute the work with the unit for the fourth year in the medical school; the university teaching, both in medicine and surgery, will be carried out in France. This unit is commanded administratively by Major James D. Fife, with Captain Thomas C. Austin as adjutant and Captain G. S. Kopple as quartermaster. The director of the professional staff is Major F. T. Murphy, professor of surgery at Washington University, and the assistant directors are Major Walter Fischel, associate professor of medicine, and Major Malvern B. Clopton, associate professor of surgery. The assistant director of the laboratory service is Captain Eugene L. Opie, who is professor of physiology, and the staff includes Captain Allison, Captain Veeder, and Captain Sidney Schwarb, associate professors, respectively, of clinical orthopedic surgery, pediatrics and neurology. All the members of the professional staff are attached to the Barnes Hospital and the Children's Hospital, St. Louis, both of which are integral parts of Washington University. The commissioned officers number twenty-eight in all. The chief of the sixty-five nurses is a lady well known among the social workers and educationalists of America—namely, Miss J. C. Stimson, niece of a distinguished American surgeon. The enlisted staff embodies about 160 men.

"The Pennsylvania unit is the only one of the six which is not attached to a university; its members are part of the staff of Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia. Major De Laney is the commanding officer and Major Richard Harte the professional director. Like the Harvard and Washington units, this group includes a chaplain.

"The unit from Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia—the oldest hospital in the United States—is commanded by Major M. A. De Laney, with Captain N. L. McDiarmid as adjutant and Captain H. L. Kidwell as quartermaster, all of the medical corps of the United States army. The director is Major Richard H. Harte, surgeon to the Pennsylvania and Orthopedic Hospitals, Philadelphia; with Major H. Gibbon as chief of the surgical service and Major George W. Norris as chief of the medical service. All the professional staff are graduates of the University of Pennsylvania, with the exception of Major Gibbon. The hospital company includes 156 men and 64 trained nurses.

"Another unit of medical men to arrive this week consists of twenty orthopedic surgeons, in charge of Major Joel E. Goldthwait. These surgeons are from various parts of the United States and have come over at the request of Colonel Robert Jones for work at present in the British Isles.

"Major Brewer gave a representative of the British Medical Journal some details of the origin and standing of these units, and these were supplemented by Major Patterson, of the Harvard unit, who has been first assistant to Colonel Jefferson R. Kean, of the medical corps of the United States army, to whom the development of the organization of these base hospitals by the Red Cross is due. The idea was originated by Dr. George W. Crile, now the director of the Western Reserve unit, as a result of his experiences in the Spanish-American war, and was brought to fruition by Colonel Kean. The United States Government has no authority to organize military medical units in time of peace, but by a presidential proclamation in 1911 the Red Cross was authorized to act as a Government agent to prepare in advance certain hospital units composed of medical men and nurses and, as far as possible, of orderlies, laboratory assistants, and administrative staff, who had been working together in similar relative capacities in some large hospital. These were organized under the Red Cross, and each member signed a pledge to hold himself or herself in readiness to respond to any call by the Government on a declaration of hostilities. During hostilities, or when these are imminent, the units can be enlisted as regular military organizations under the sole control of the War Department, and each of the medical officers of the unit must be a member of the medical reserve corps. This arrangement was designed to make well-organized hospital units immediately available for service in the base hospitals in time of war, and to avoid the necessity of calling together men from different parts of the country who had had no previous association. Major Brewer stated that the units, most of which are organized from hospitals attached to university medical schools, now number thirty-eight, and during the past year each of these units has been supplied with a full hospital equipment, including beds, bedding, linen, instruments, hospital furniture, x-ray and laboratory apparatus, and a supply of surgical appliances and dressings enough to last for two months' active service. When these units are called out the War Department furnishes three officers from the regular army to take charge of the administration of each of them, while the professional personnel remains under the director who has been at the head of the unit from the first, and with him are two sub-directors, one to superintend the surgical, and the other the medical, service. The staff includes a chief of laboratory service, a competent pathologist, a bacteriologist, and a number of laboratory technicians, each group has also an orthopedic surgeon, a neurologist, an ear, nose, and throat specialist, and a radiologist, all of them, as far as possible, from the teaching staff of the university medical school. By thus putting into active service a 'team' of men who have already been accustomed to work together, it is believed that the best technical results can be obtained. The Columbia unit, for example, consists of doctors and nurses who have been working together at the Presbyterian Hospital in New York in the same capacities as those to which they are now assigned.

"At the request of the British Commission, which recently visited Washington, six of these thirty-eight hospital units have been lent to the British Government with a view to releasing the staffs already at the base hospitals. As originally organized, the unit, when called out, intended to carry its own complete equipment, but as these six units were requested to take over six general hospitals already in being, only some special instruments, and not the full equipment, have been brought across the Atlantic. Major Brewer also indicated an interesting development for the immediate future. For some time it has been planned by the National Red Cross of America to provide each of these units with a complete set of hospital buildings of the portable house type. The plans were formulated by Dr. Sidney A. Burnap, a member of the Columbia unit, and have been approved by the Council of National Defense. Through the generosity of a New York philanthropist orders have been given for the construction of a set of hospital buildings capable of accommodating 500 patients, staff, and administrative personnel, and including operating theatre, kitchen, laundry, heating, lighting, and disinfecting plant, sewerage system, and all labor-saving devices on the most up-to-date lines. Between forty and fifty buildings (forming one set) are now being constructed on this portable plan, capable of being erected and made ready for use within two or three weeks, so as to form a base hospital; when this model building is completed it will be placed on exhibition, either in one of the parks of New York or at one of the military concentration camps, and if it proves as satisfactory as expected, the Government will probably order ten or more of these groups of buildings to be constructed for base hospital use with the first expeditionary force to Europe.

"In the official summary, issued on May 29, of what the United States has accomplished during the seven weeks which have elapsed since it entered the war, it is stated that ten thousand doctors, in addition to many nurses, have been ordered to England and France. As the bill which is to be put into force forthwith will provide an army of 2,000,000 men, this is at the rate of one doctor to 200 men. It is, however, anticipated that not more than 100,000 Americans, all told, will be available in France at an early date, and it is to be assumed that all the ten thousand doctors will not come to Europe before the main American forces reach this country."

APPEAL FOR RED CROSS VOLUNTEERS.

WITH the removal of the Red Cross Supply Service from Washington Street to the corner of Columbus Avenue and Berkeley Streets, Mr. Grandin, manager, issues the following statement in appealing for volunteer service.

"The general purpose of the Supply Service is to keep on hand all the standard material that the patriotic people of New England may require in connection with the work of making Red Cross surgical dressings and hospital supplies. This is an emergency service, however, and Red Cross chapters, branches, or any relief organizations having satisfactory dealings with local mills and retailers, are advised to continue their present connections, thereby retaining the incidental good will in the interest of the Red Cross, rather than to sever such connections and purchase entirely from the Supply Service. When, however, local supplies are scarce, or prices unsatisfactory, all Red Cross chapters, branches or auxiliaries at large, or any other accredited relief associations, are most welcome to purchase from us direct, and we shall make a special effort to ship promptly.

"All Red Cross supplies from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, which include surgical dressings as well as hospital supplies, such as surgical shirts, pajamas, convalescent gowns, bed linens, towels, etc., should be shipped to the Red Cross Supply Service, 142 Berkeley Street, Boston, at which point they are inspected, repacked into standard boxes and hurried forward, in accordance with instructions from Washington.

"It is quite evident that in order to inspect the shipments which are coming to us from the generous people of New England (as we handle all the territory of New England save that of Connecticut), that we require the assistance of a large force of volunteer workers who, under the guidance of the heads of the several departments, can render valuable service in inspection and correction, by coming to 142 Berkeley street.

"This is an earnest appeal for volunteer service. We need not less than one hundred women every day in the week. Enlist now."

A CORRECTION.

Boston, June 9, 1917.

Mr. Editor:

In the article on Dr. Withington in the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal of June 7th there is the following: "the first use of diphtheria antitoxin in the Boston City Hospital, which was in his service, on Dec. 12th, 1894."

I believe this is a misapprehension, as I had been using at this hospital a portion of a supply of antitoxin, which came to me from Dr. von Behring, before this date.

So far as I am aware, my patients were the first to have diphtheria antitoxin in this community, and the opposition to its use I sometimes found it difficult to overcome.

One of my articles on this subject was published in the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal on December 20th, 1894. Dr. Withington's article appeared on March 14th, 1895.

Very truly yours,

FRANCIS H. WILLIAMS.

MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE FOR THE STATE CARE AND TREATMENT OF SOLDIERS SUFFERING FROM NERVOUS AND MENTAL DISEASES.

64 Beacon St., Boston, June 22, 1917.

Mr. Editor:—

A letter has just been received by our National Committee for Furnishing Hospital Units for the Care of Soldiers and Sailors Suffering from Mental and Nervous Disorders to the United States Government from Dr. Thomas W. Salmon, Medical Director of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene, extracts of which may be of interest to the readers of the JOURNAL.

Dr. Salmon has been sent by the Rockefeller Foundation to England and France for the purpose of studying conditions there relative to the care and treatment of nervous and mental diseases in this war. Under date of June 1, 1917, he writes from London: "In the first place, I am convinced we are providing far too few beds for actual war conditions. This is entirely true of base hospitals generally, but it is especially true of the accommodations for mental and nervous cases. A British army division consists of 40,000 men, and has a base hospital of 1000 beds, which can be expanded to twice that number. This ratio is considerably larger than that provided by the United States regulations.

"The extent of the nervous and mental casualties is almost beyond belief. I have not yet had access to the official records, but apparently the neuroses constitute one of the most formidable problems of modern war. I shall have innumerable instances, showing how ineffective ordinary treatment is in these cases, and how much can be accomplished from sufficient treatment, by psychiatrists and neurologists, when they have early access to their patients, and some special facilities.

"The little I have already learned has convinced me of the importance of excluding certain easily recognizable psychiatric types at the time of their enlistment. Dr. Mott, who has had enormous experience here, says that he cannot emphasize this too strongly. These people are certain to go to pieces in the presence of danger or hardship, and are not only useless themselves, but are also a serious drag upon their comrades and the army in general. Mott believes that no testing methods can detect these individuals, but that their exclusion must depend upon the expert clinical judgment of the well-trained psychiatrists and neurologists."

Very sincerely yours,

L. VERNON BRIGGS,
Secretary, Massachusetts
Committee, and Member of the National Committee.
